YEE-HAW

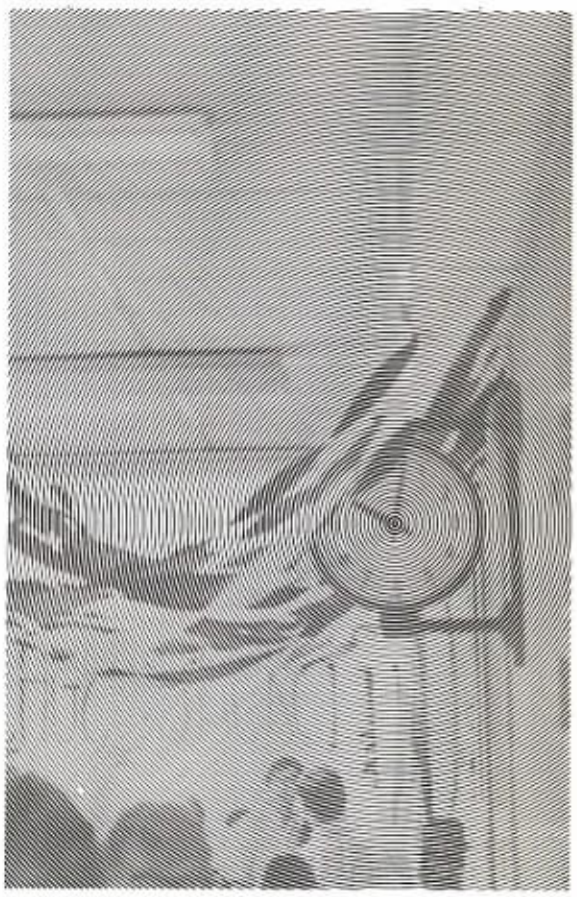
Vol. 5
1972

Southwest High School
Fort Worth, Texas
Editor: Diane Clark



Day after day,
minutes interwoven
into a life pattern.

INTRODUCTION

Threads dyed in experiences, designs conceived in contacts.
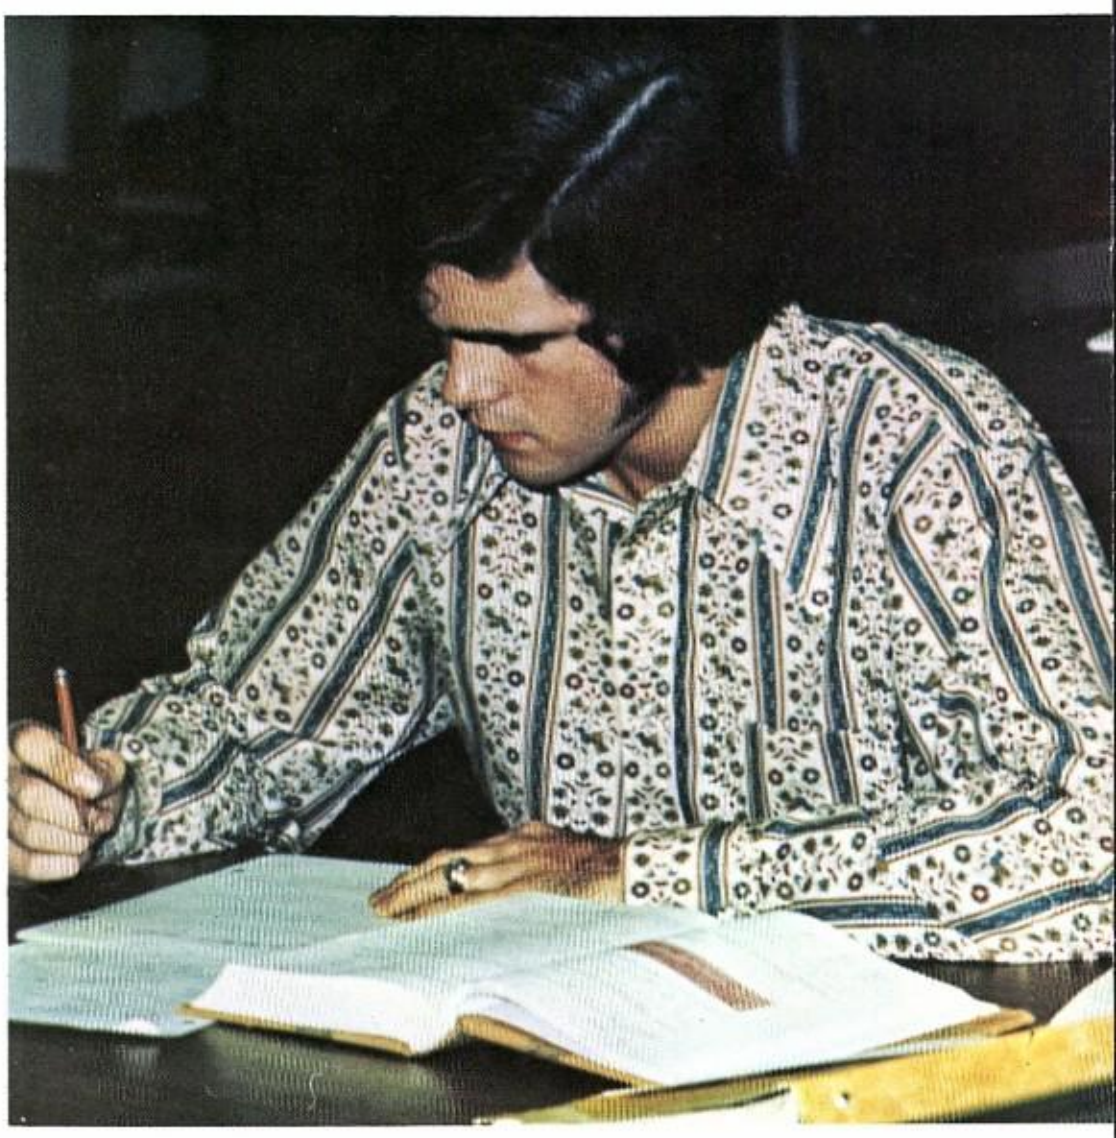
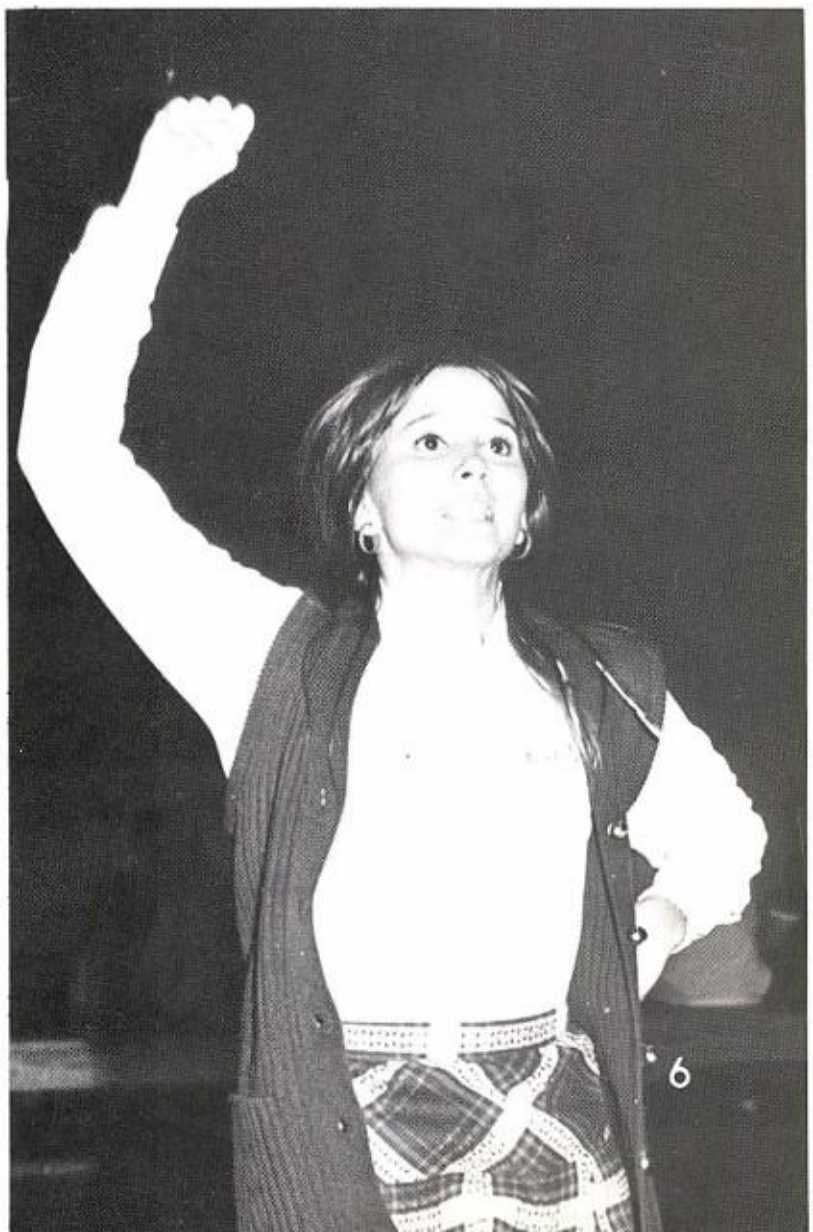
a tapestry . . .
a person;

INTRODUCTION





INTRODUCTION

each one a different picture, an individual genius of a sort striving for something more

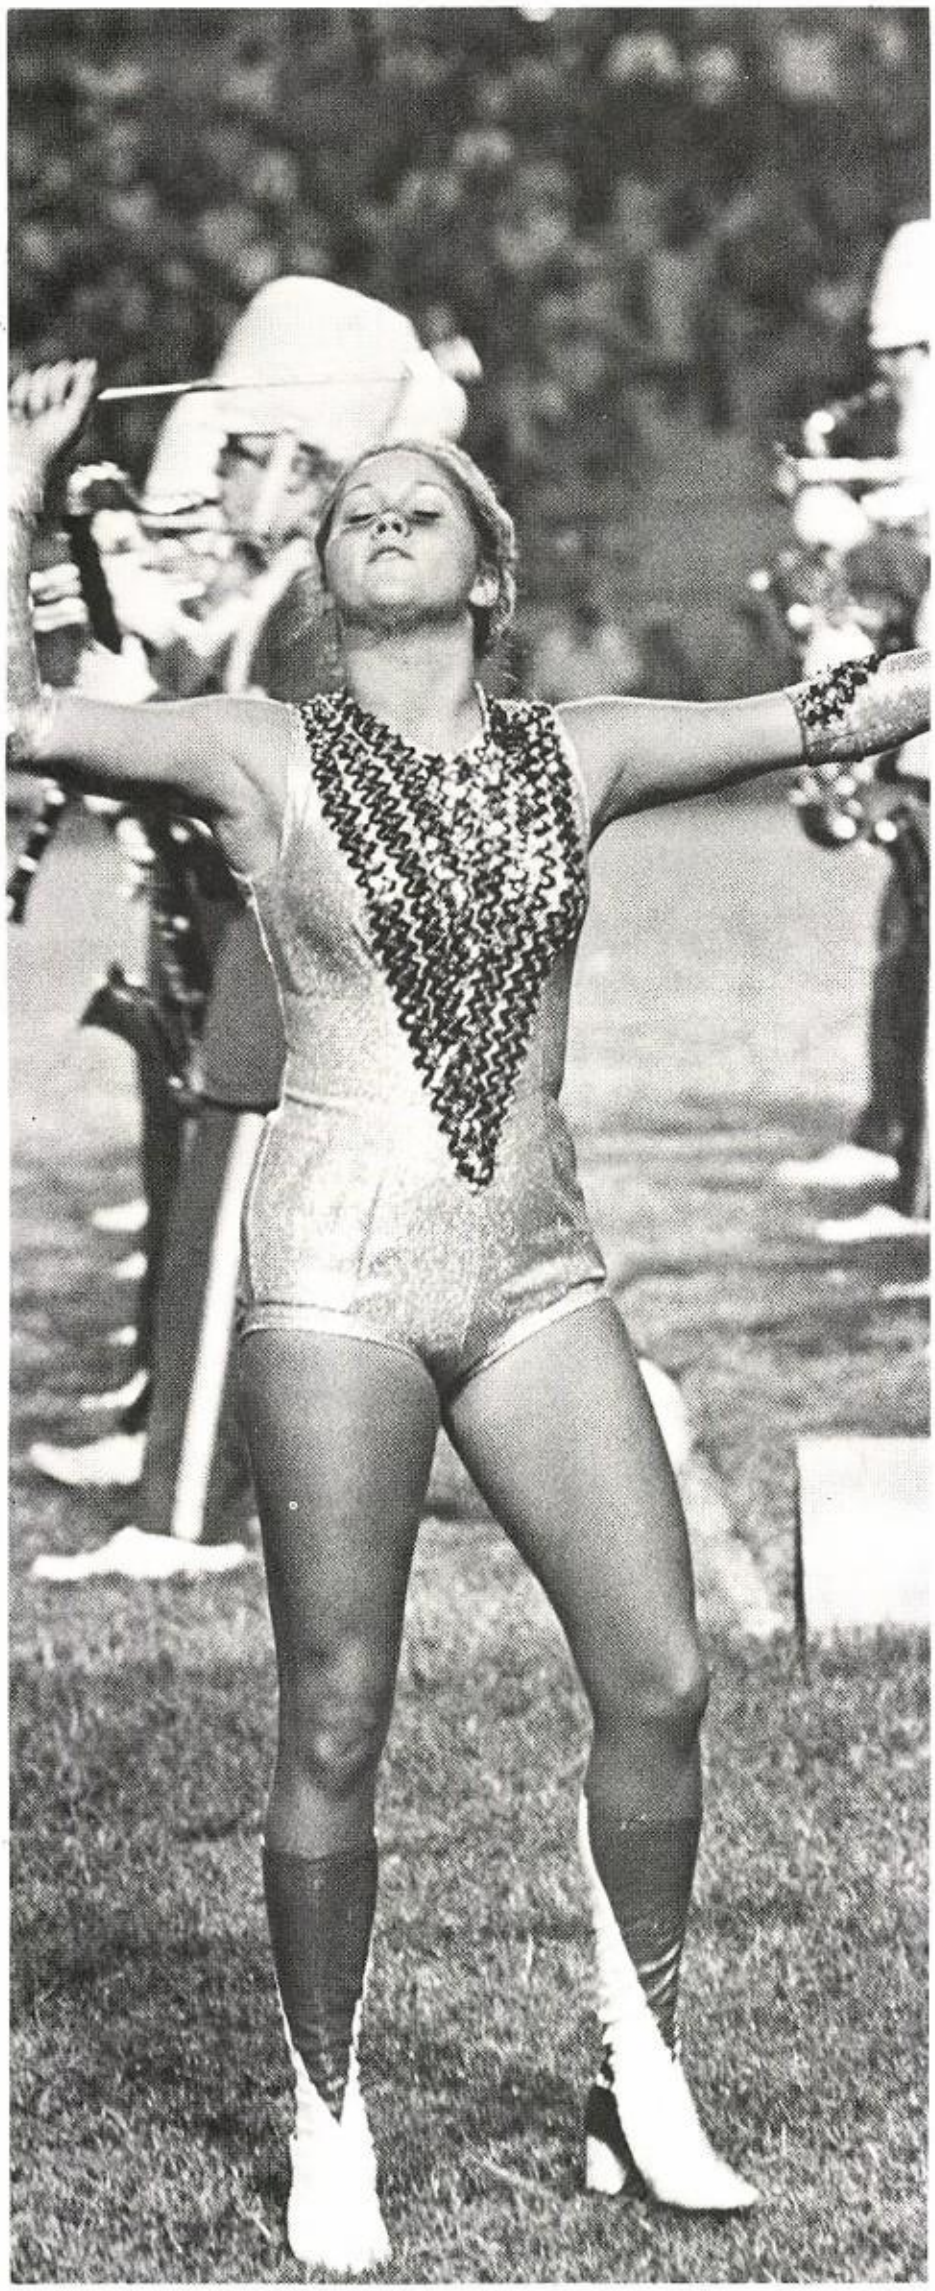
INTRODUCTION



something to crystalize
the moments into eternity and present them as a complete fabric
to the future generations

INTRODUCTION

to be used to form
that era's cloak of life

INTRODUCTION

just as each today is protected by yesterday's tapestry of experiences.

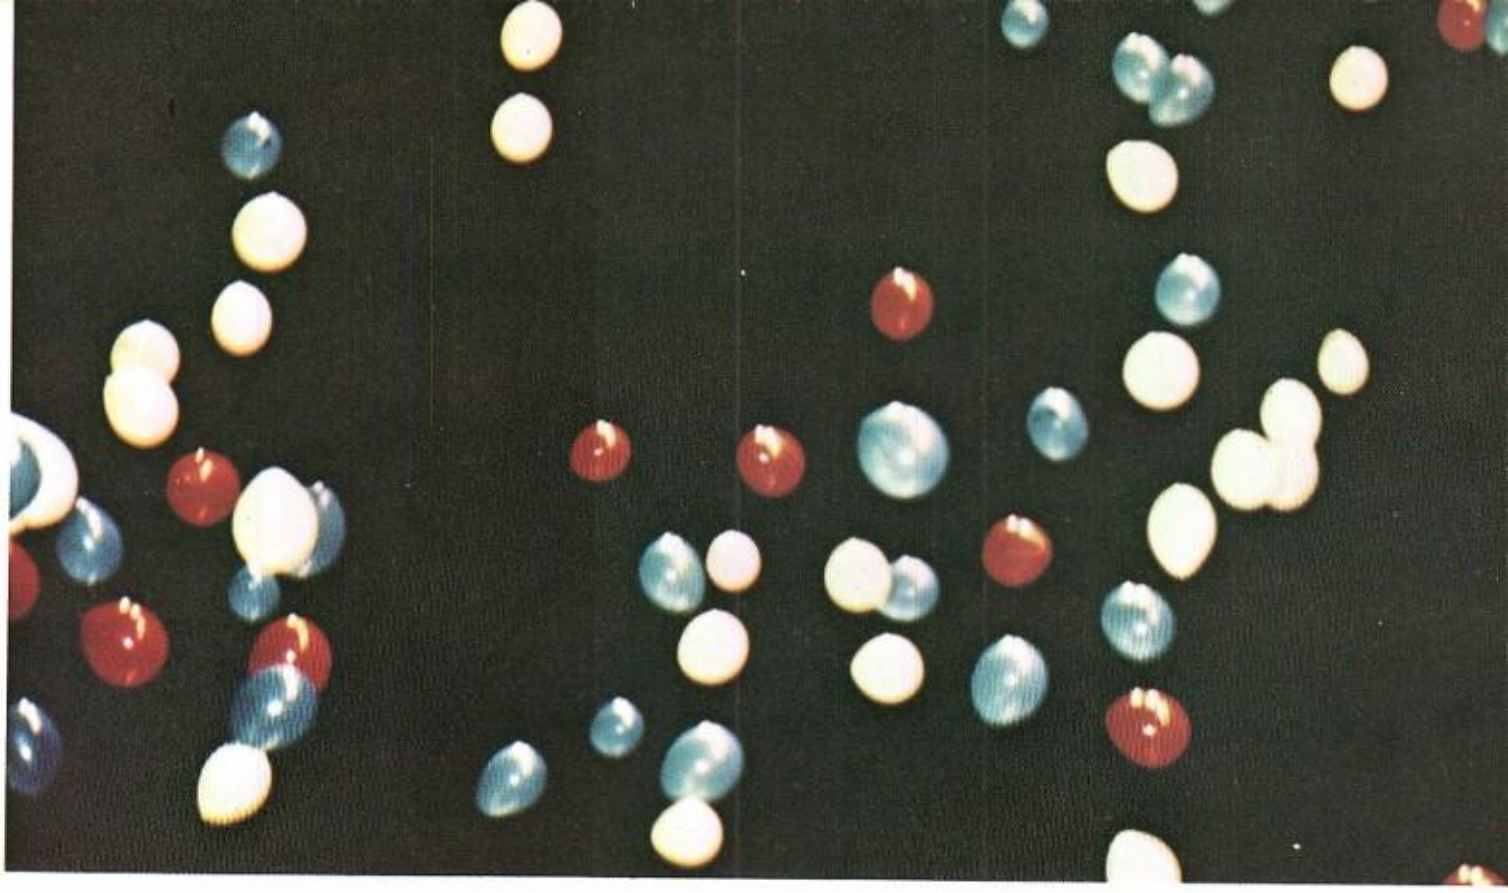
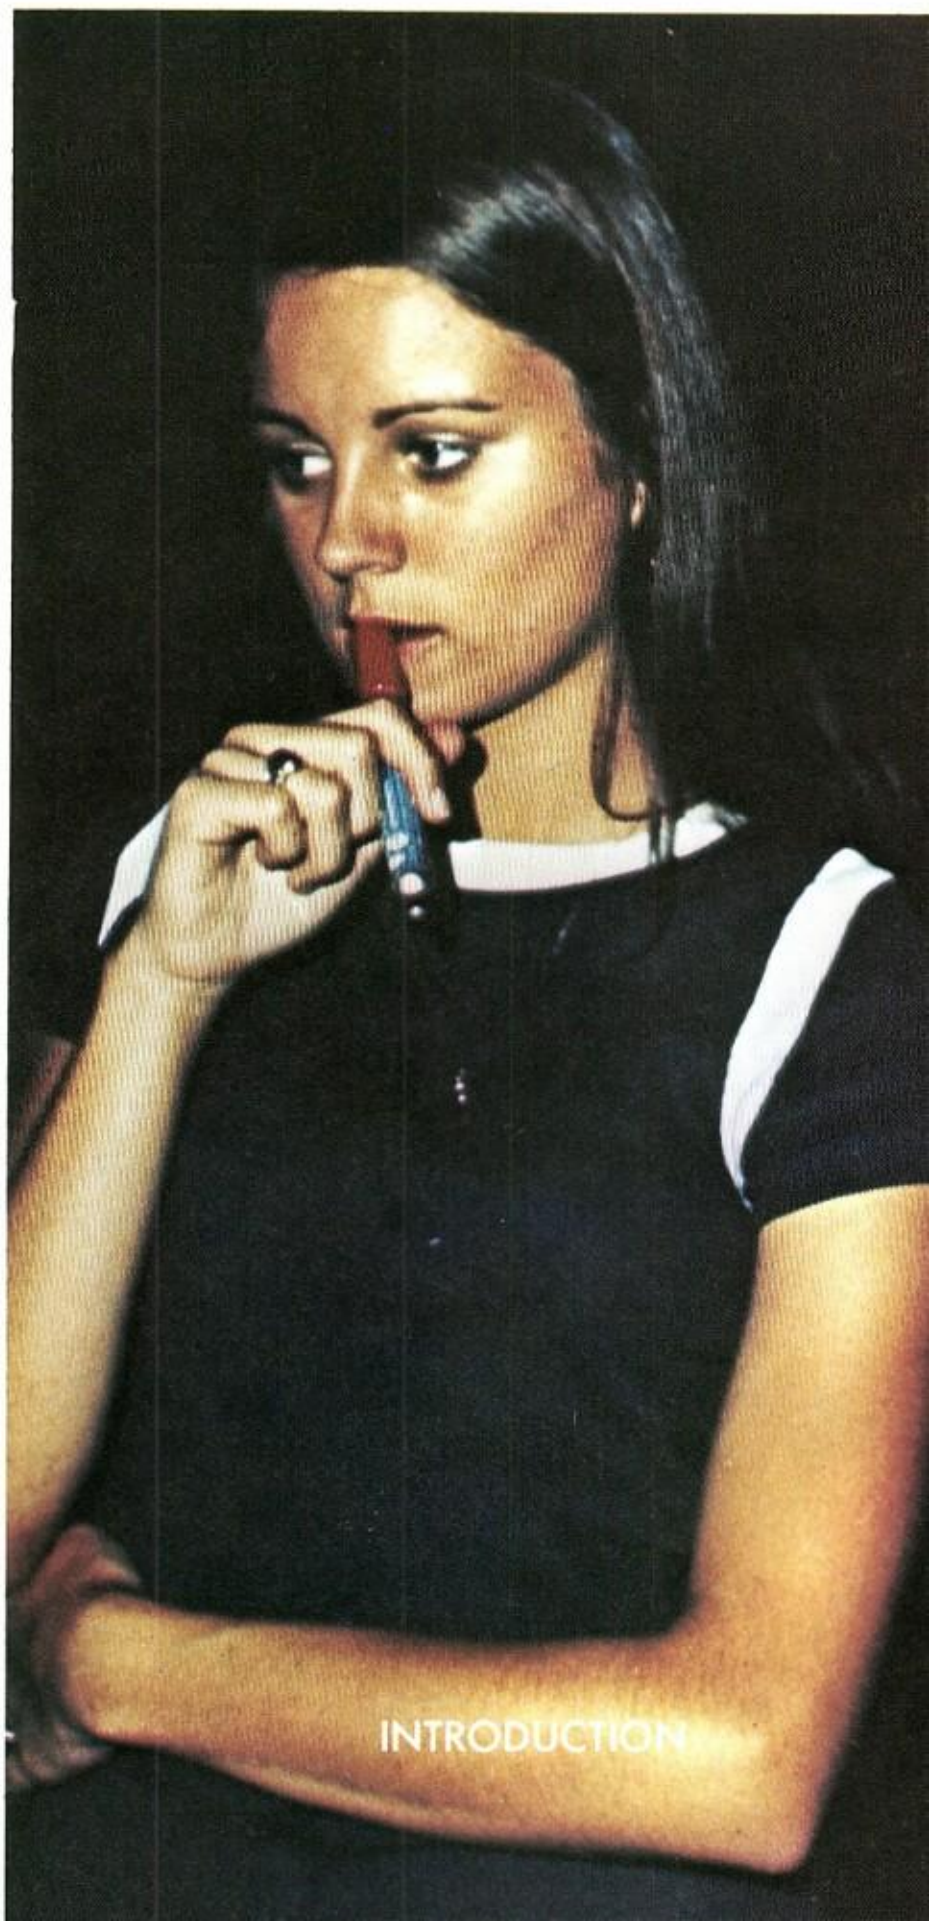
INTRODUCTION





INTRODUCTION

My life has been a tapestry of rich and royal hue,
An everlasting vision of the everchanging view . . .

One more song about moving along the highway Can't say much of anything that's new;
If I could only work this life out my way,
I'd rather spend it being close to you.

HIGHLIGHTS

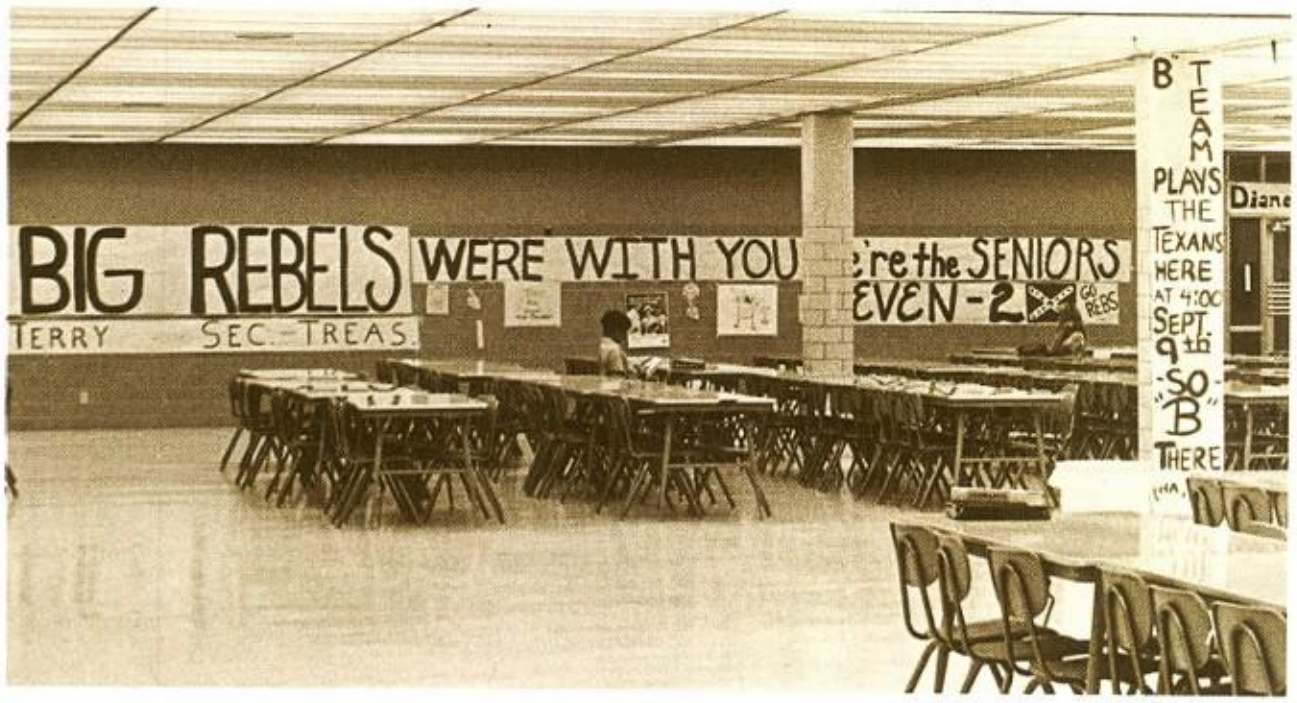
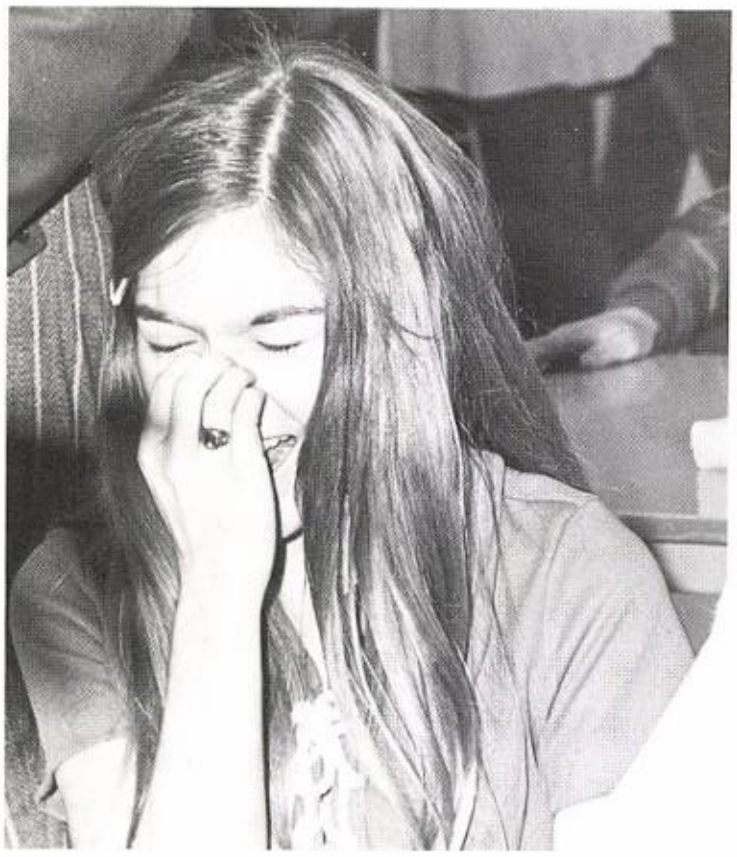
BIRTHDA
LANDRA





Pardon Susan Clark while she ach-oos.

August 30, 1971:
A common date
that initiates
a not-so-common year.
For our freshmen
it's "only the beginning"
For our seniors —
the beginning of the end.
But for all —
a year of lectures,
friendships,
labs,
and field events;
a year for memories
woven into the tapestry
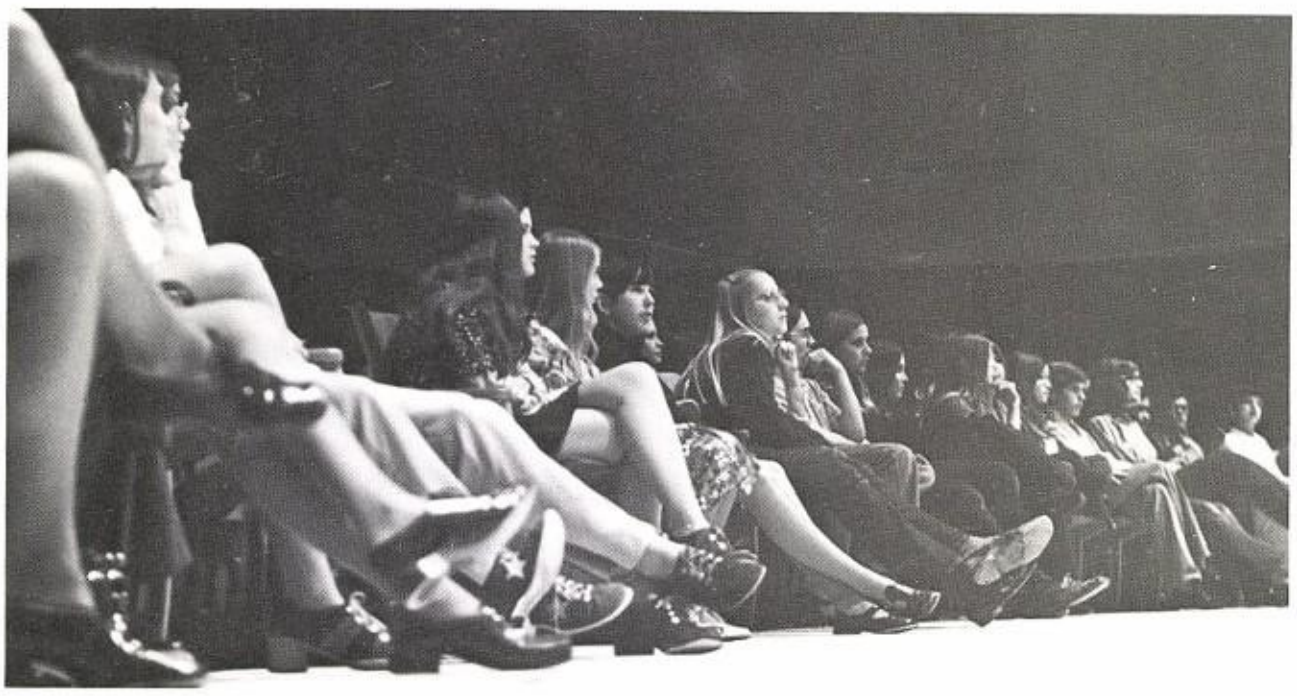
of life.



All the leg shows aren't on the stage.

Spirited seniors get the ball rolling.

We beat 'em!

HOMECOMING

You never looked so good, Larry.

Spirit kindled by anticipation,
we plan and decorate.
Exes-fest — carnival and reunion combined —
starts the festivities.
Enthusiasm grows with all;
Friday's pep rally includes Rebel-Man's antics,
senior girls' skit,
judging of the decorations,
and the dramatic presentation
of our Homecoming court.
Mums' jingling bells
cheer halls and owners;
the excitement carries through to our victorious game.
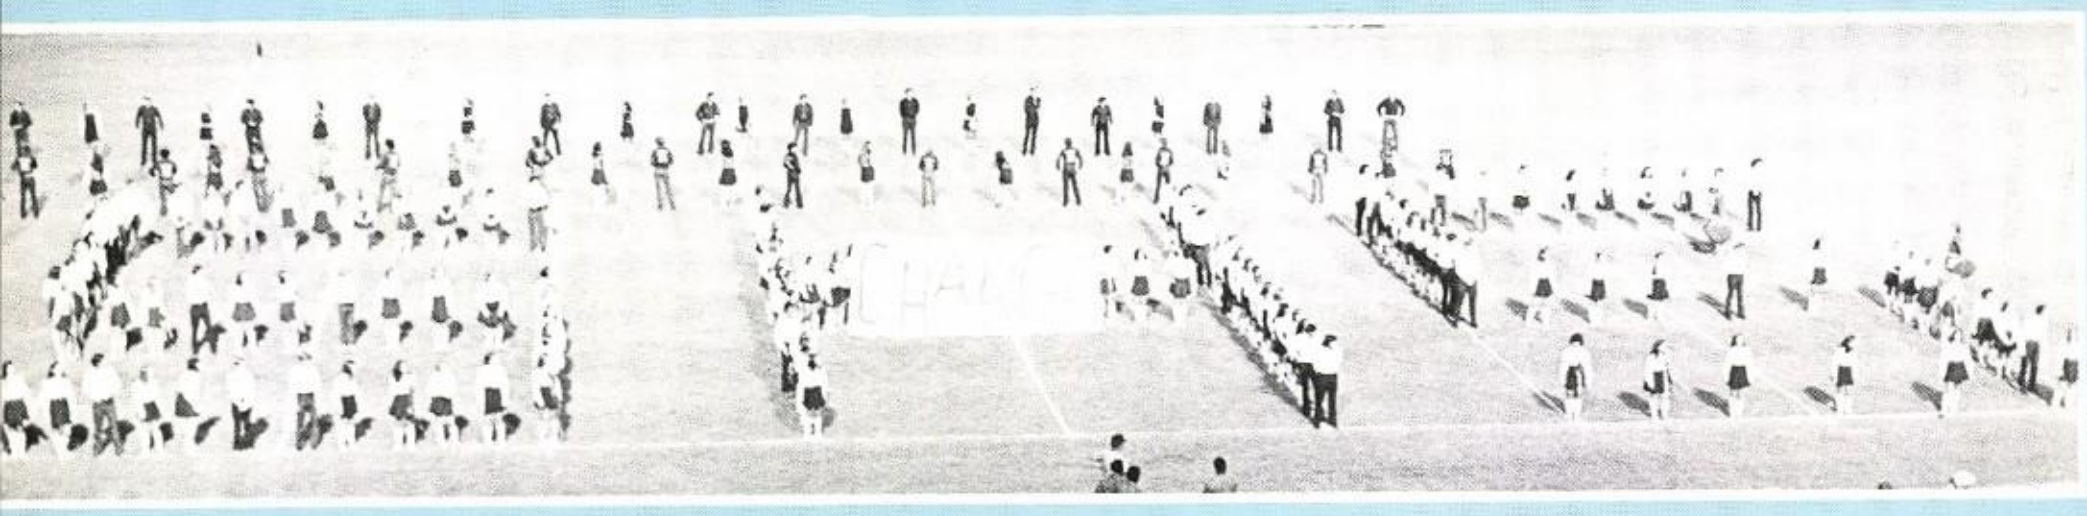
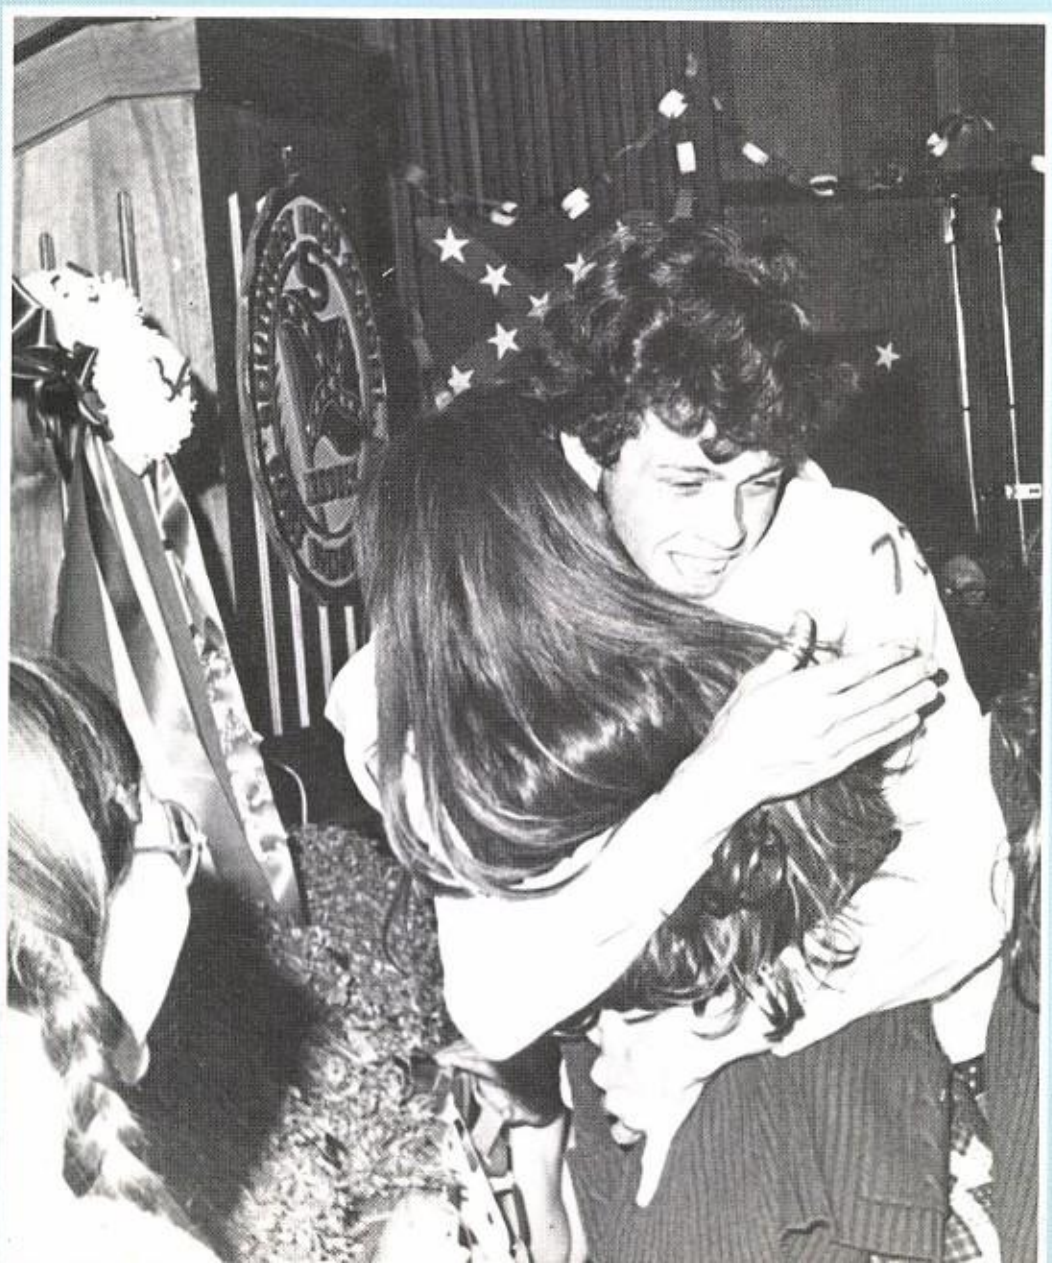
Time for slowing down
with dancing at Colonial.
The great day over,
our memories continue.

HOMECOMING

Queen for a Homecoming.



Cheryl Lanham and Escort Russ Saunders.



And just who is Wade Helm hugging?

A lack of scenery
sets the stage
for the imagination.
We become involved
in the daily twistings
of small-town life
in the early twentieth century.
We see life
as it is — comprised of little events interlaced with love, living,
and death.
We see that through blindness
we miss Life's fleeting importance.

Darius Johnston and Kim Shinn

Ellen Fondren and Darius.

"OUR TOWN"

Kim and Don Cauldwell.

"Do any human beings ever realize life while they live it? — every, every minute?"

The graveyard scene.

Firemen are prompt in answering the call.

Once the Yee-Haw Staff had carried their belongings to safety and learned the building was not in peril, Carrie Morgan continued tallying "All-Southwest" votes.

It all began on the east side, the for-real fire drill lasting about forty-five minutes, Period 7 into Period 8.

Ho-hum . . .
another fire drill
and the ever-present joking:
"Maybe it'll be one this time," We're not immediately aware that this time
it's the real thing.
Ennui vanishes as the word spreads —
Fire engines reawaken
childish excitement
as all take advantage
of an unexpected break
in routine.
As a stray thought clicks,
we realize that it's not really a game at all.

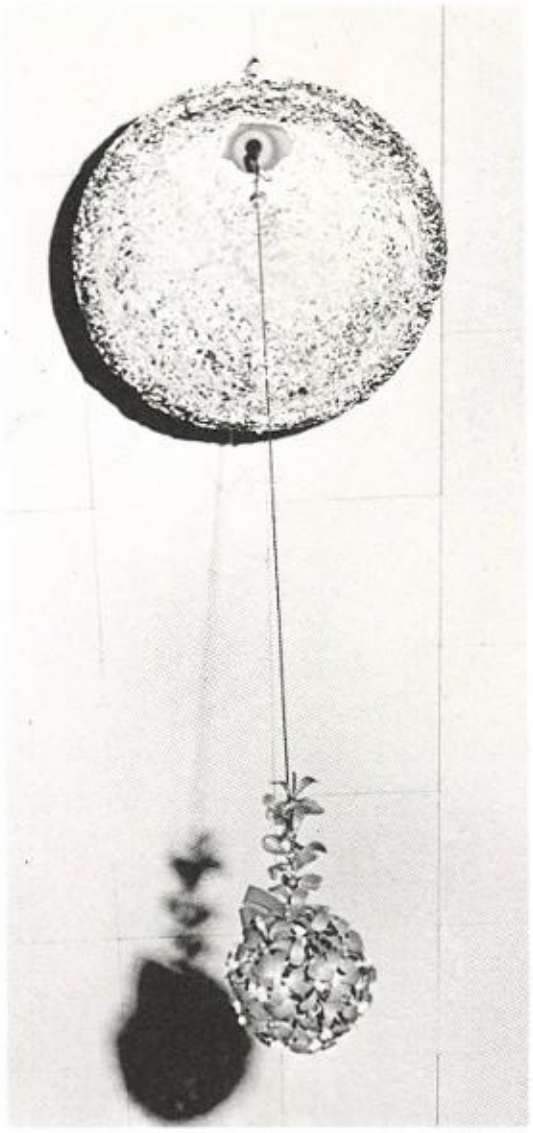
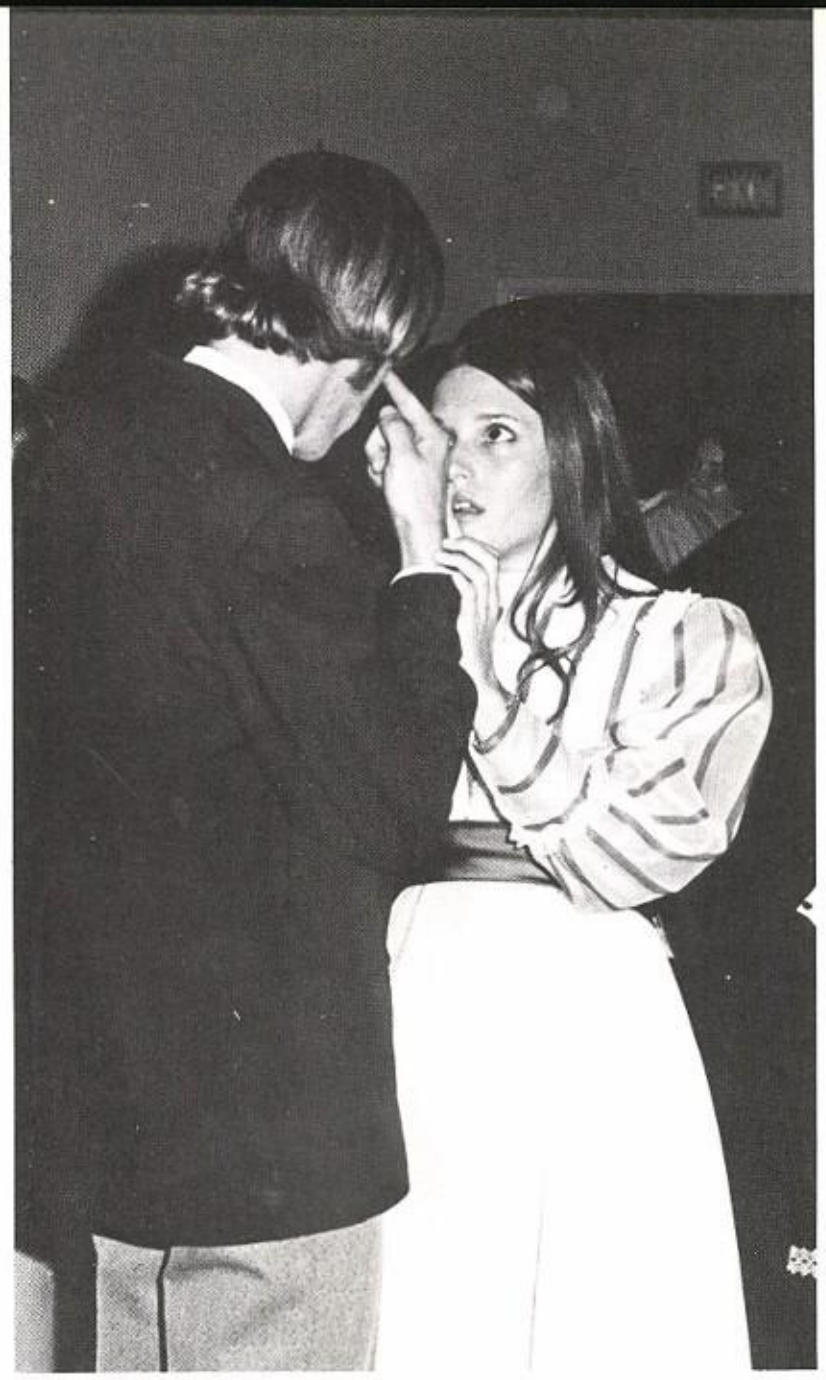
Fireman Jim and his friends ferret out the rat.

. . . QUICKLY EXTINGUISHED

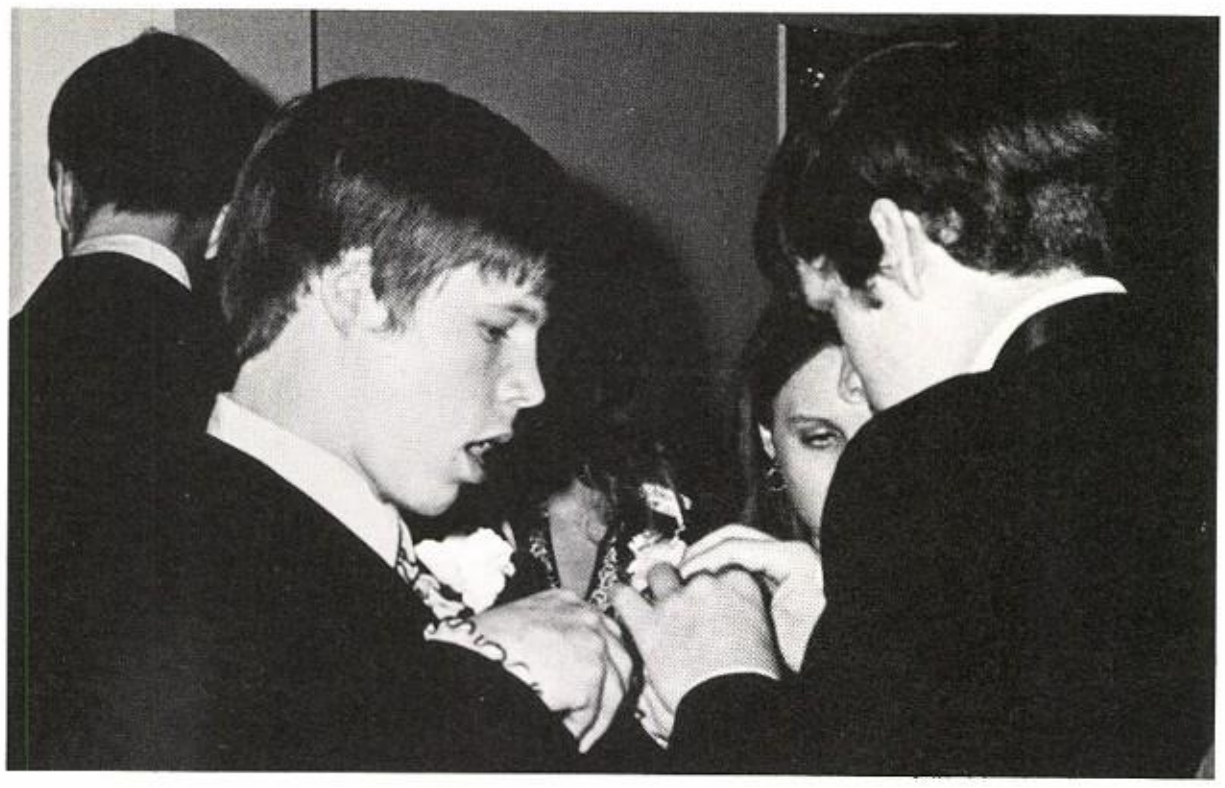


Ding-a-ling.

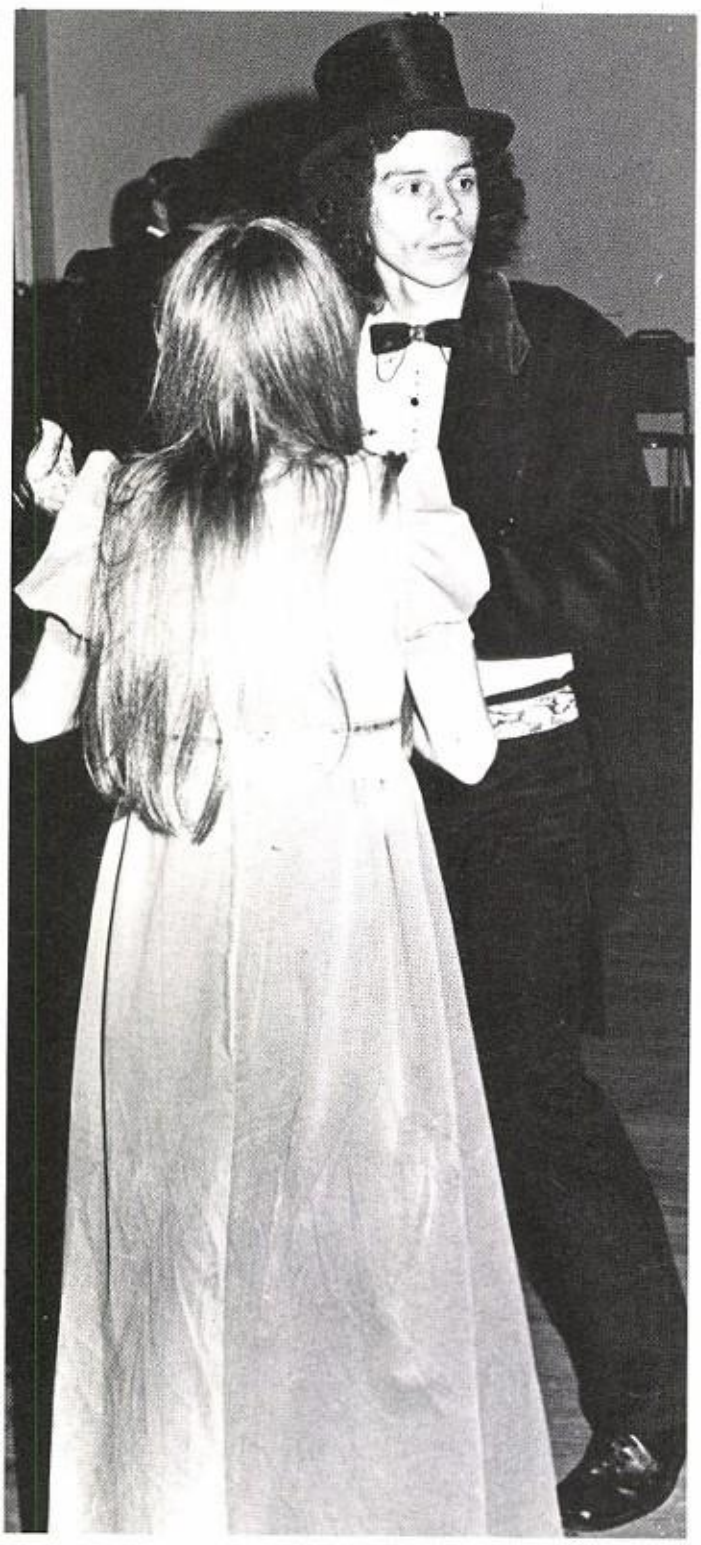


Contact! Contact!

Who's the chick in the middle with Mark?



You have to keep your boutonniere on; it's part of the game.



Backward Bashes are always weird.

PLANS!
Who will you take?
What will you wear?
Where will you eat?
Each girl plots and pays (Where am I going to get the money?)
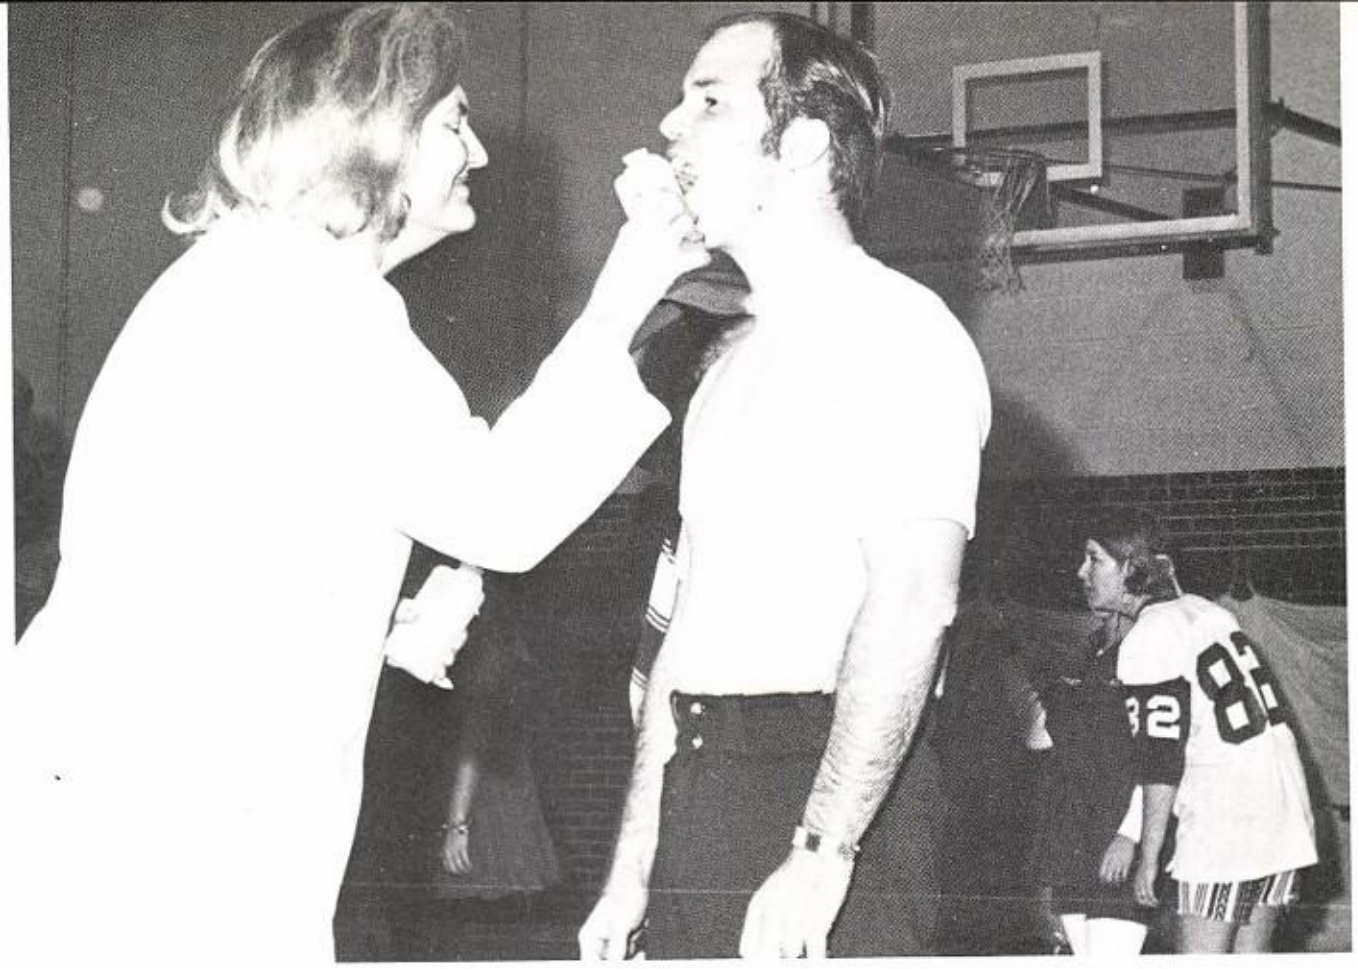
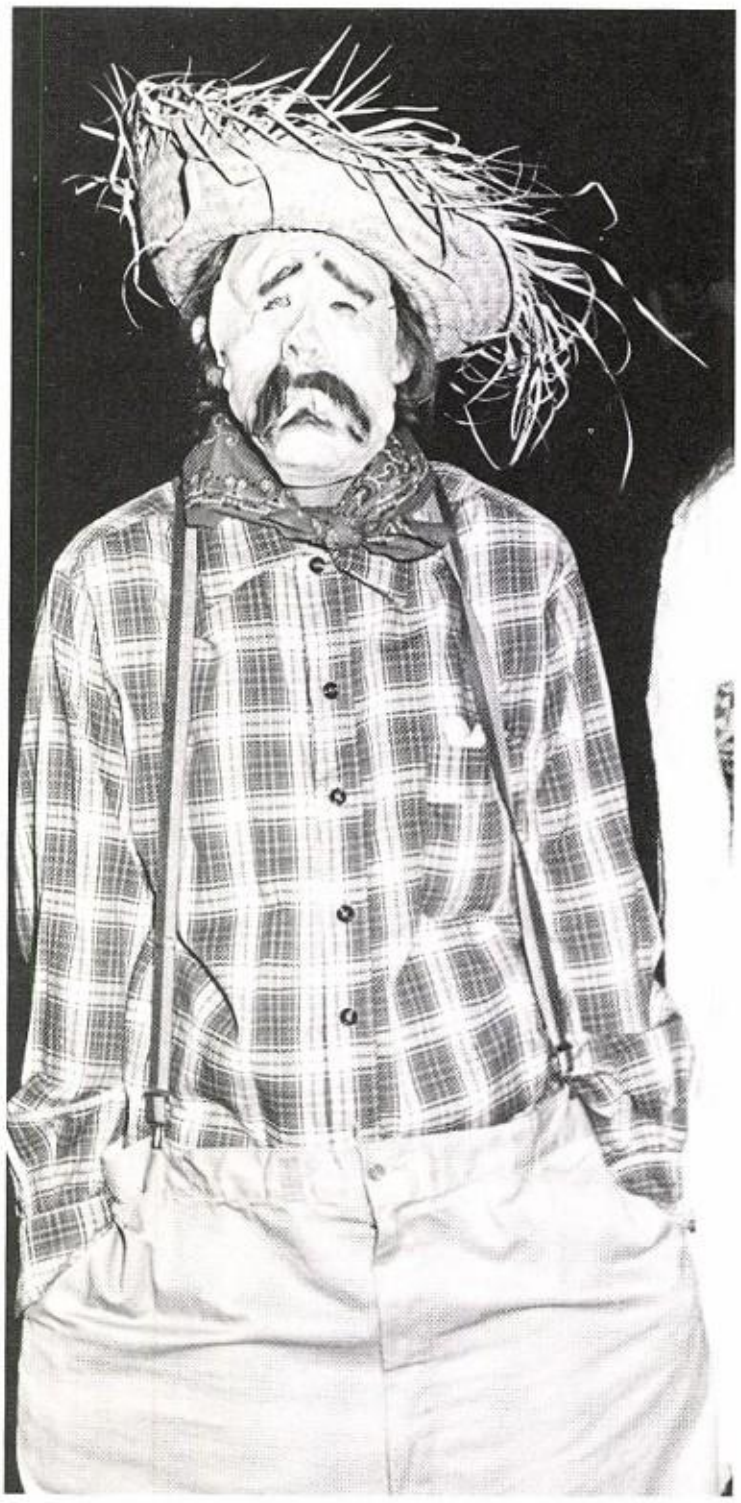
for the dance in reverse.
The night is packed
with dining, discussion, and dancing.
Hmmm — exciting!
All the everyday people
seem different in their elaborate dress;
conscious and self-conscious —
aware of being special.

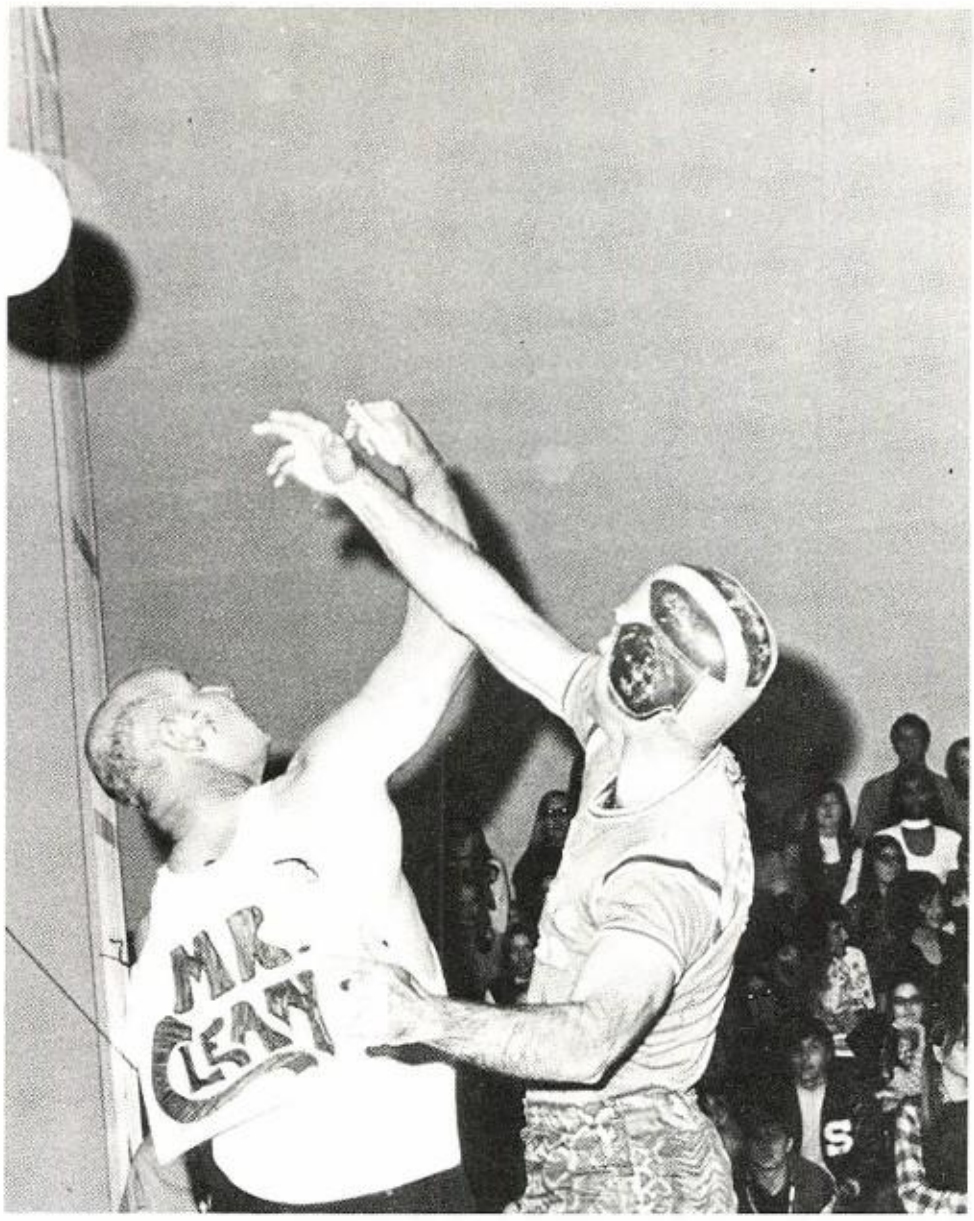


Mrs. Martha Hickey gives Doc Fisk a quick pick-me up.

Bobby socks, knee socks, nylon hose!



Man, woman or beast? Mrs. Standifer defies description.



Mr. Clean battles the Helmeted Horrow.

High spirits fly
in this exaggerated frolic
of strange people
and questionable scores.
Teachers (assisted by Mr. Clean) battle the student forces
in annual competition.
And then come the queens . . .
The avowed winner in applause
slinks off the court
and here we go again,
trying to cap the climax
in the last day before the Holidays!

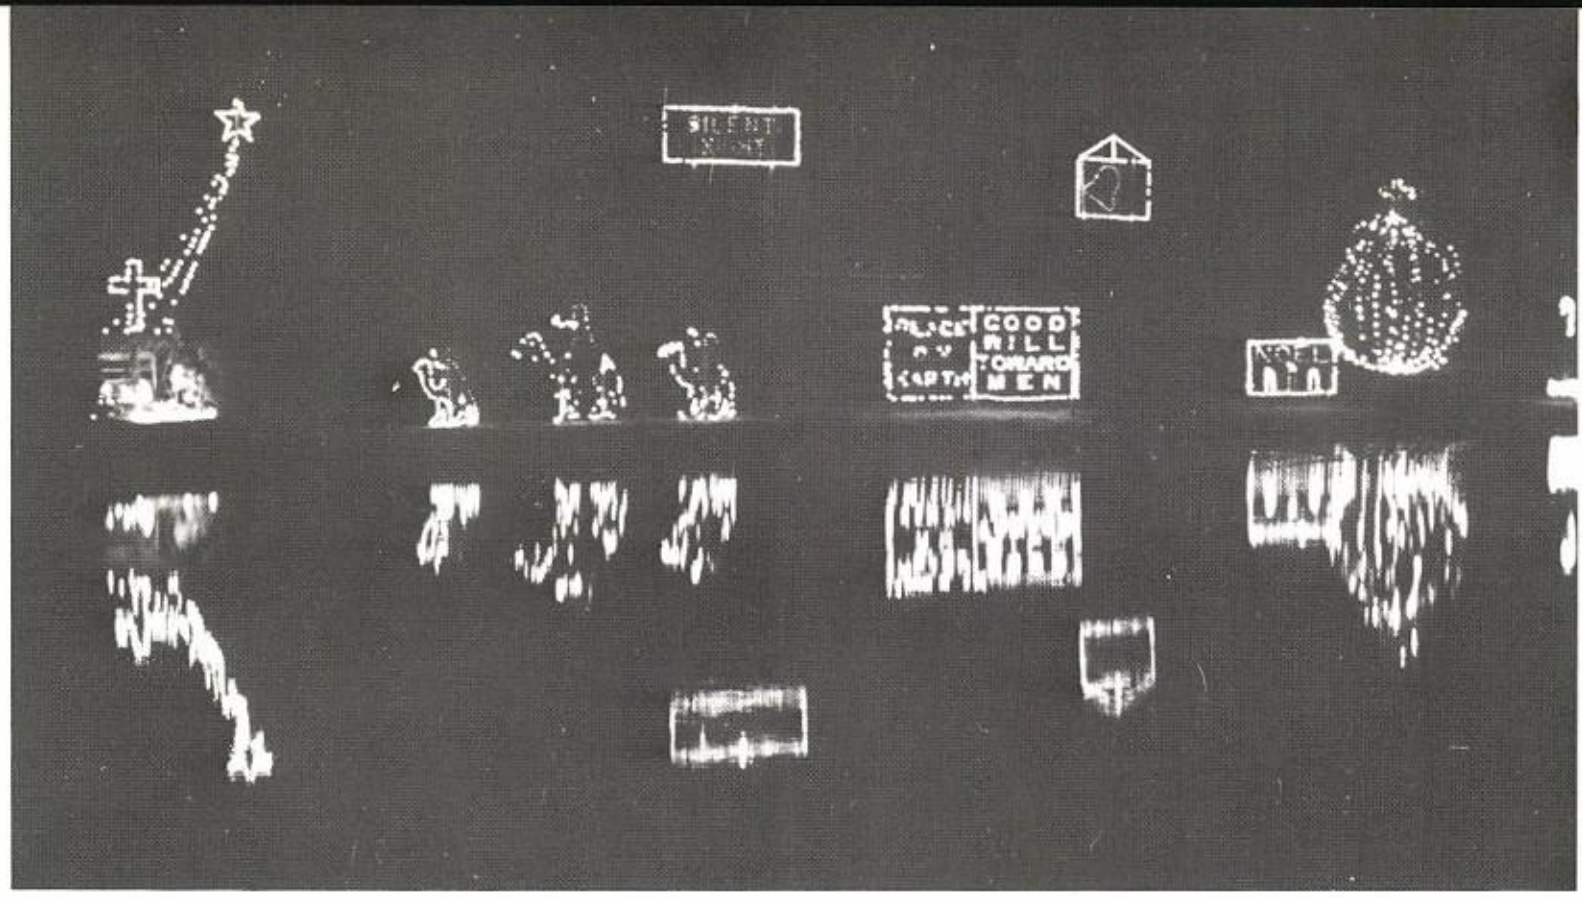
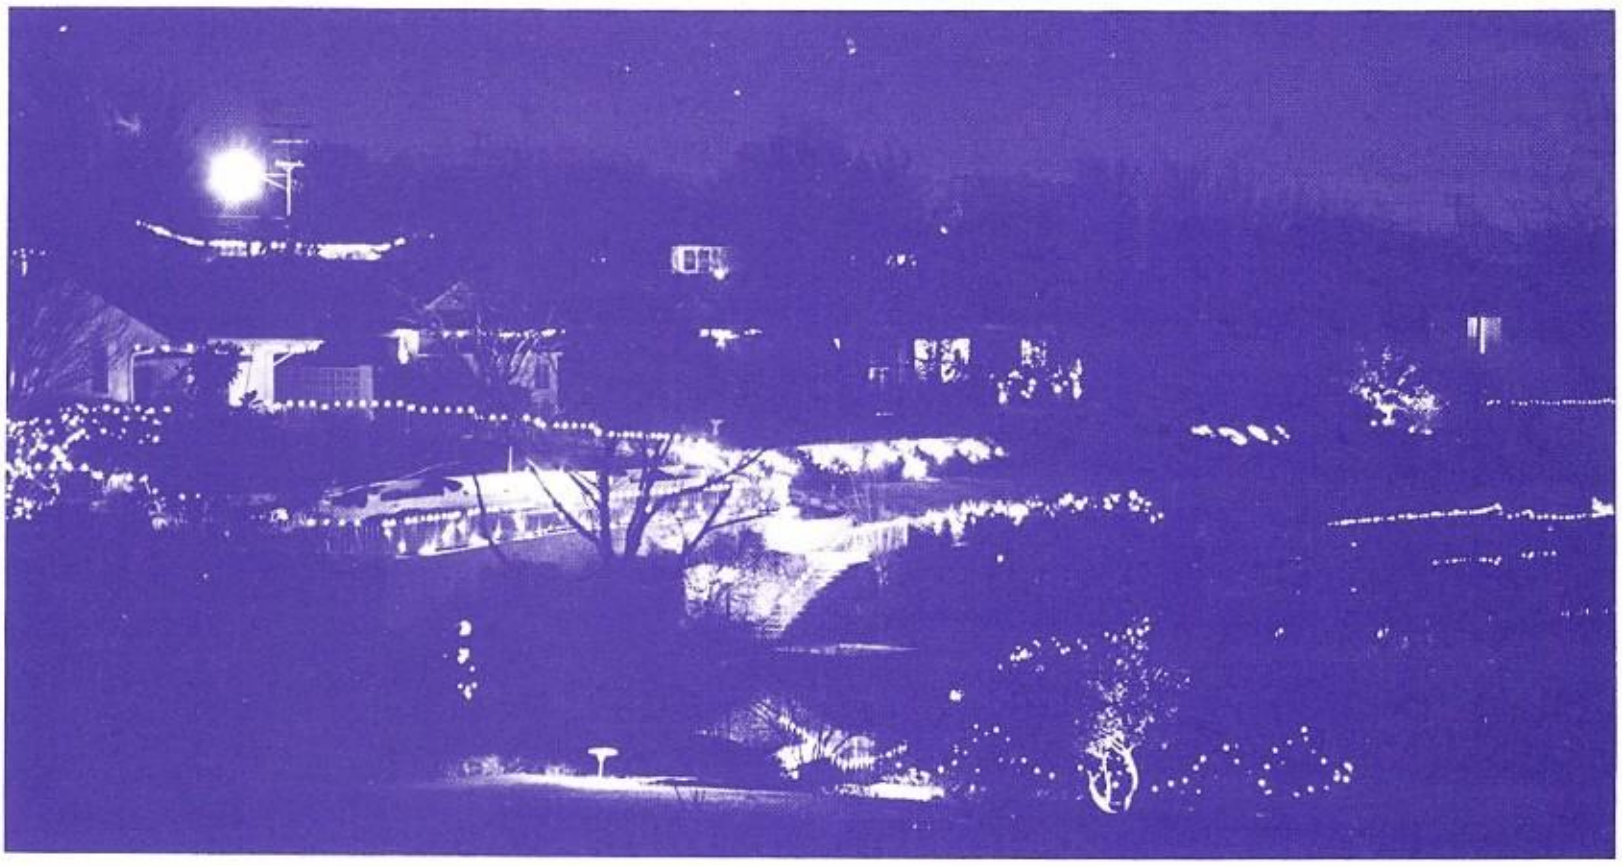
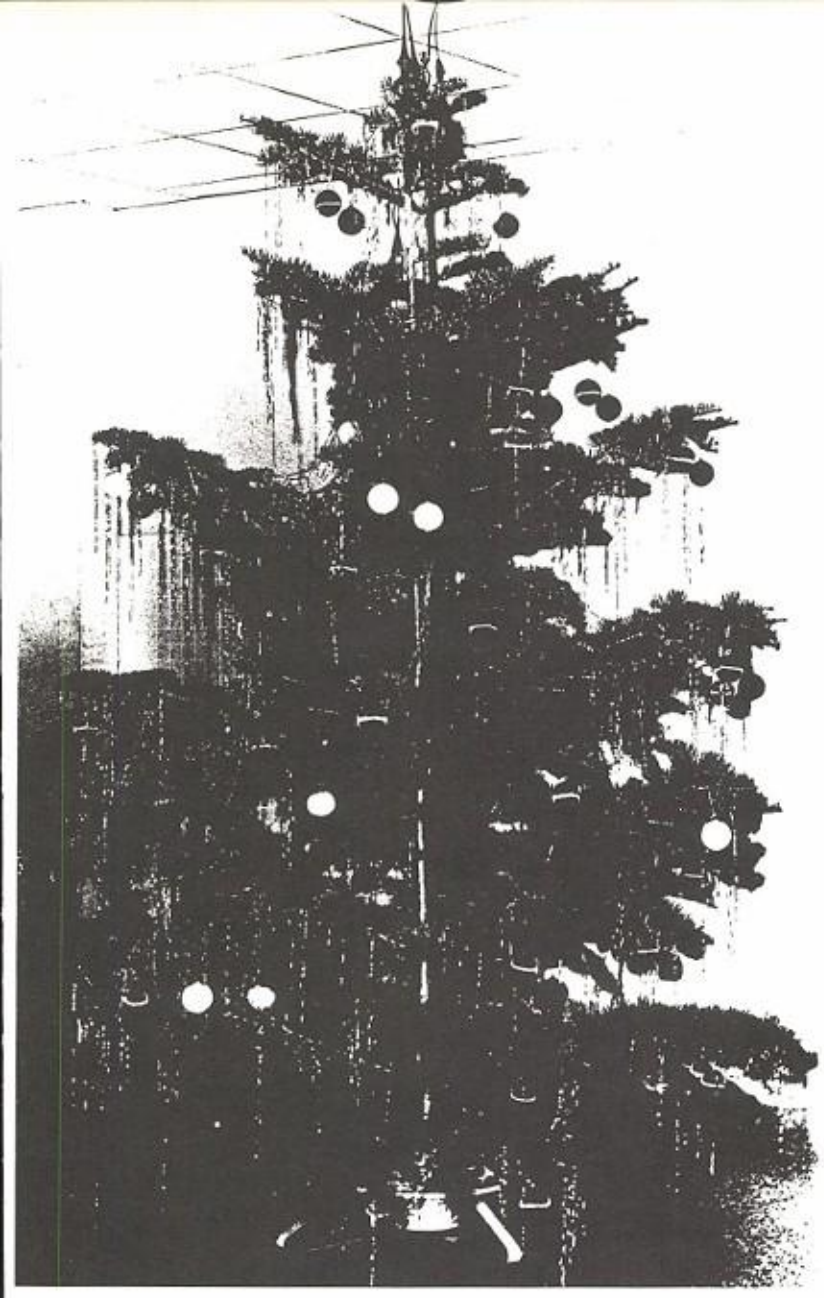
STUDENT COUNCIL-FACULTY VOLLEYBALL GAME



SILENT NIGHT
GOOD WILL TOWARD MEN

'Twas The NIGHT BEFORE CHRISTMAS
In TEXAS you Know
Way out on the PRAIRIE
(Without any Snow)





The magic of Christmas!
A powerful symbolic season
the traditional stories and anthems,
the gourmet cooking, tree-trimming
and gift-giving.
Out of school!
An exhilerating walk by the crowds and Santas
and a rush of parties that thread through the New Year.
Driving around — little gasps
at the neighborhoods that have entered into lands of enchantment —
Good will pentrates the air.
Surely the most hardened cynic can't escape feeling the specialness
of a moment filled with love, laughter, sentiments, reflections, worship
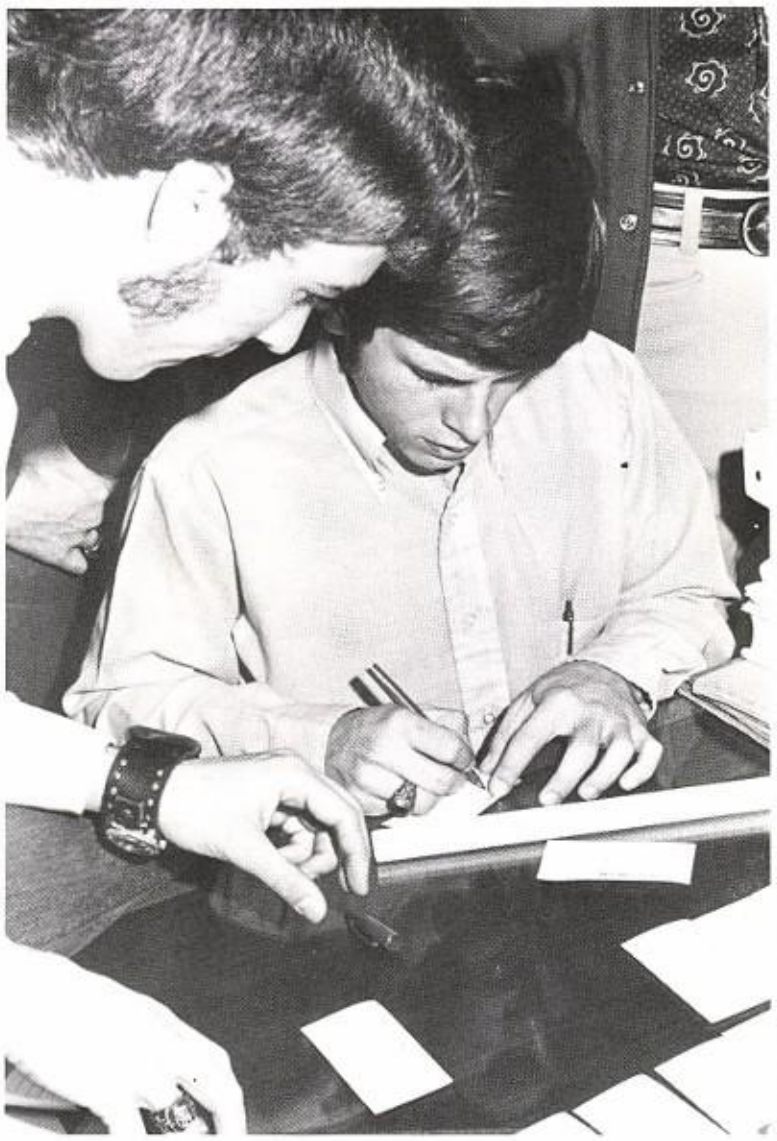
and the hope for peace on earth.

CHRISTMAS

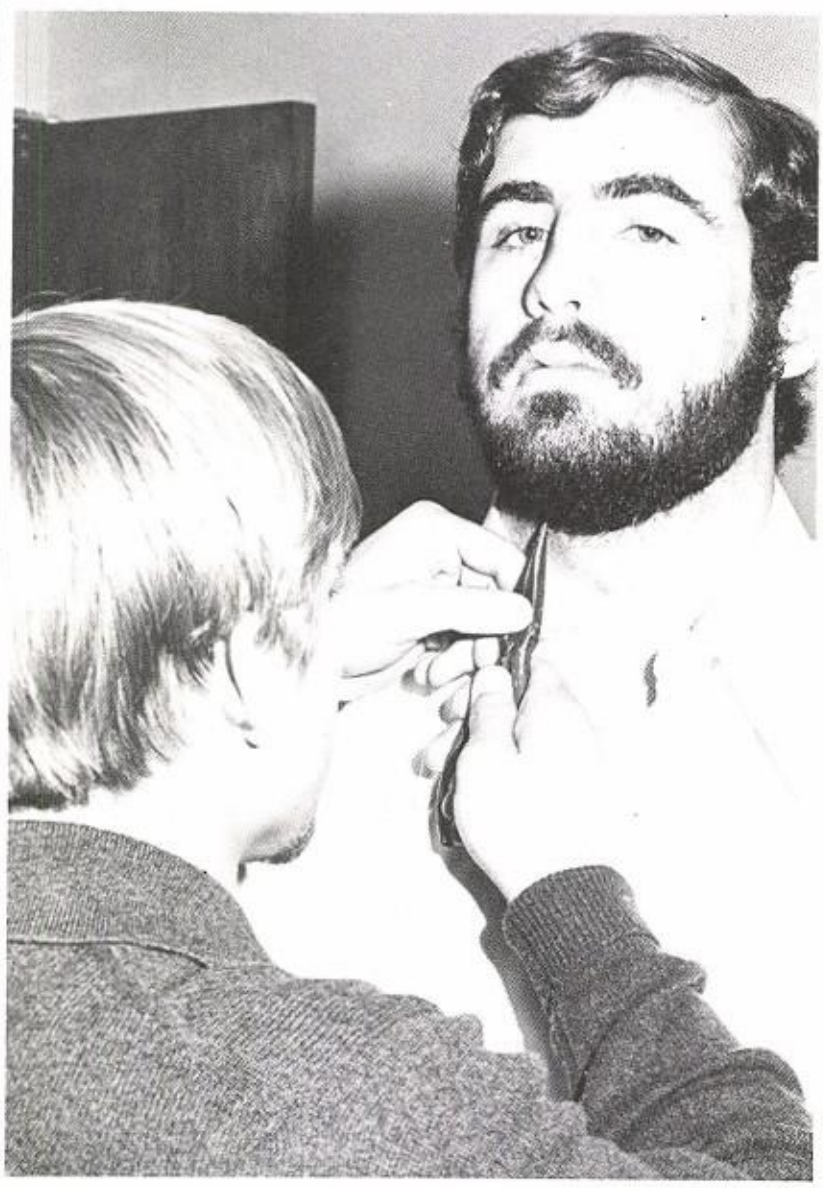
David Amis gauges Steve Lynch.



Keeping tabs on whose hair's whose.

Contestants eagerly await the results of the contest.

It's a case of amateur versus professional.



"Now this won't hurt a bit."

Hairy, scraggly, fuzzy,
itchy feeling,
rough, smooth, wiry,
full and long —
all shapes,
all sizes
in a beard growing contest that bestows the marvelous mark of manhood
upon Jim Suggs,
with Coach Younger
and Raleigh Smith
Tieing for second place.

BEARD GROWING CONTEST

Scarlatti, Moussorgsky, Saint-Saens . . .
Noyes, Kipling, Whitman . . .
in classrooms, in rare assemblies,
guests help make the arts
a vivid pattern in Southwest's tapestry,
as when John Whitten,
raconteur and restauranteur,
recites poetry
for Thrush-Williams'
freshman classes,
or, inban appearance sponsored by the Ford Foundation,
pianist Gary Graffman holds the student body spellbound.

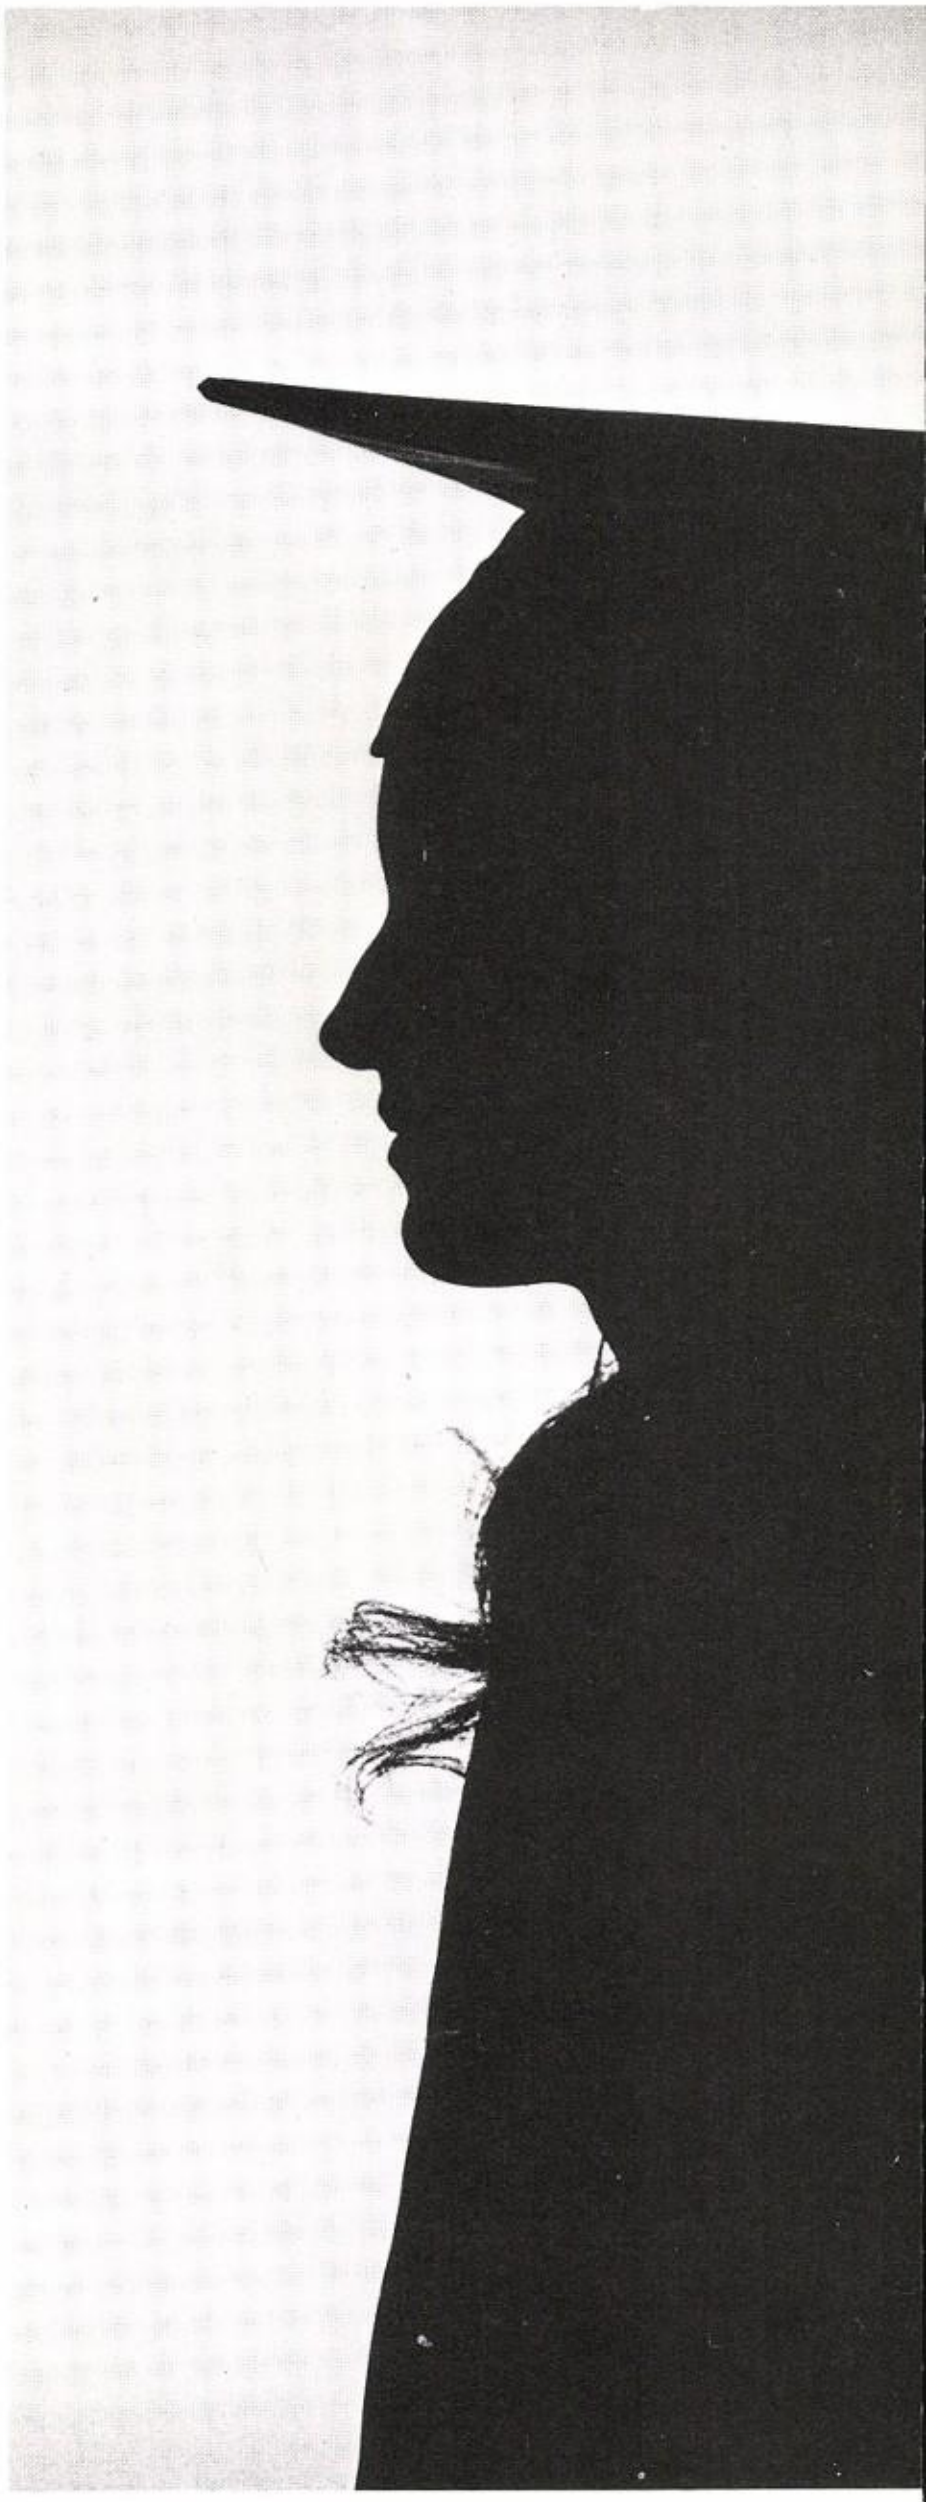
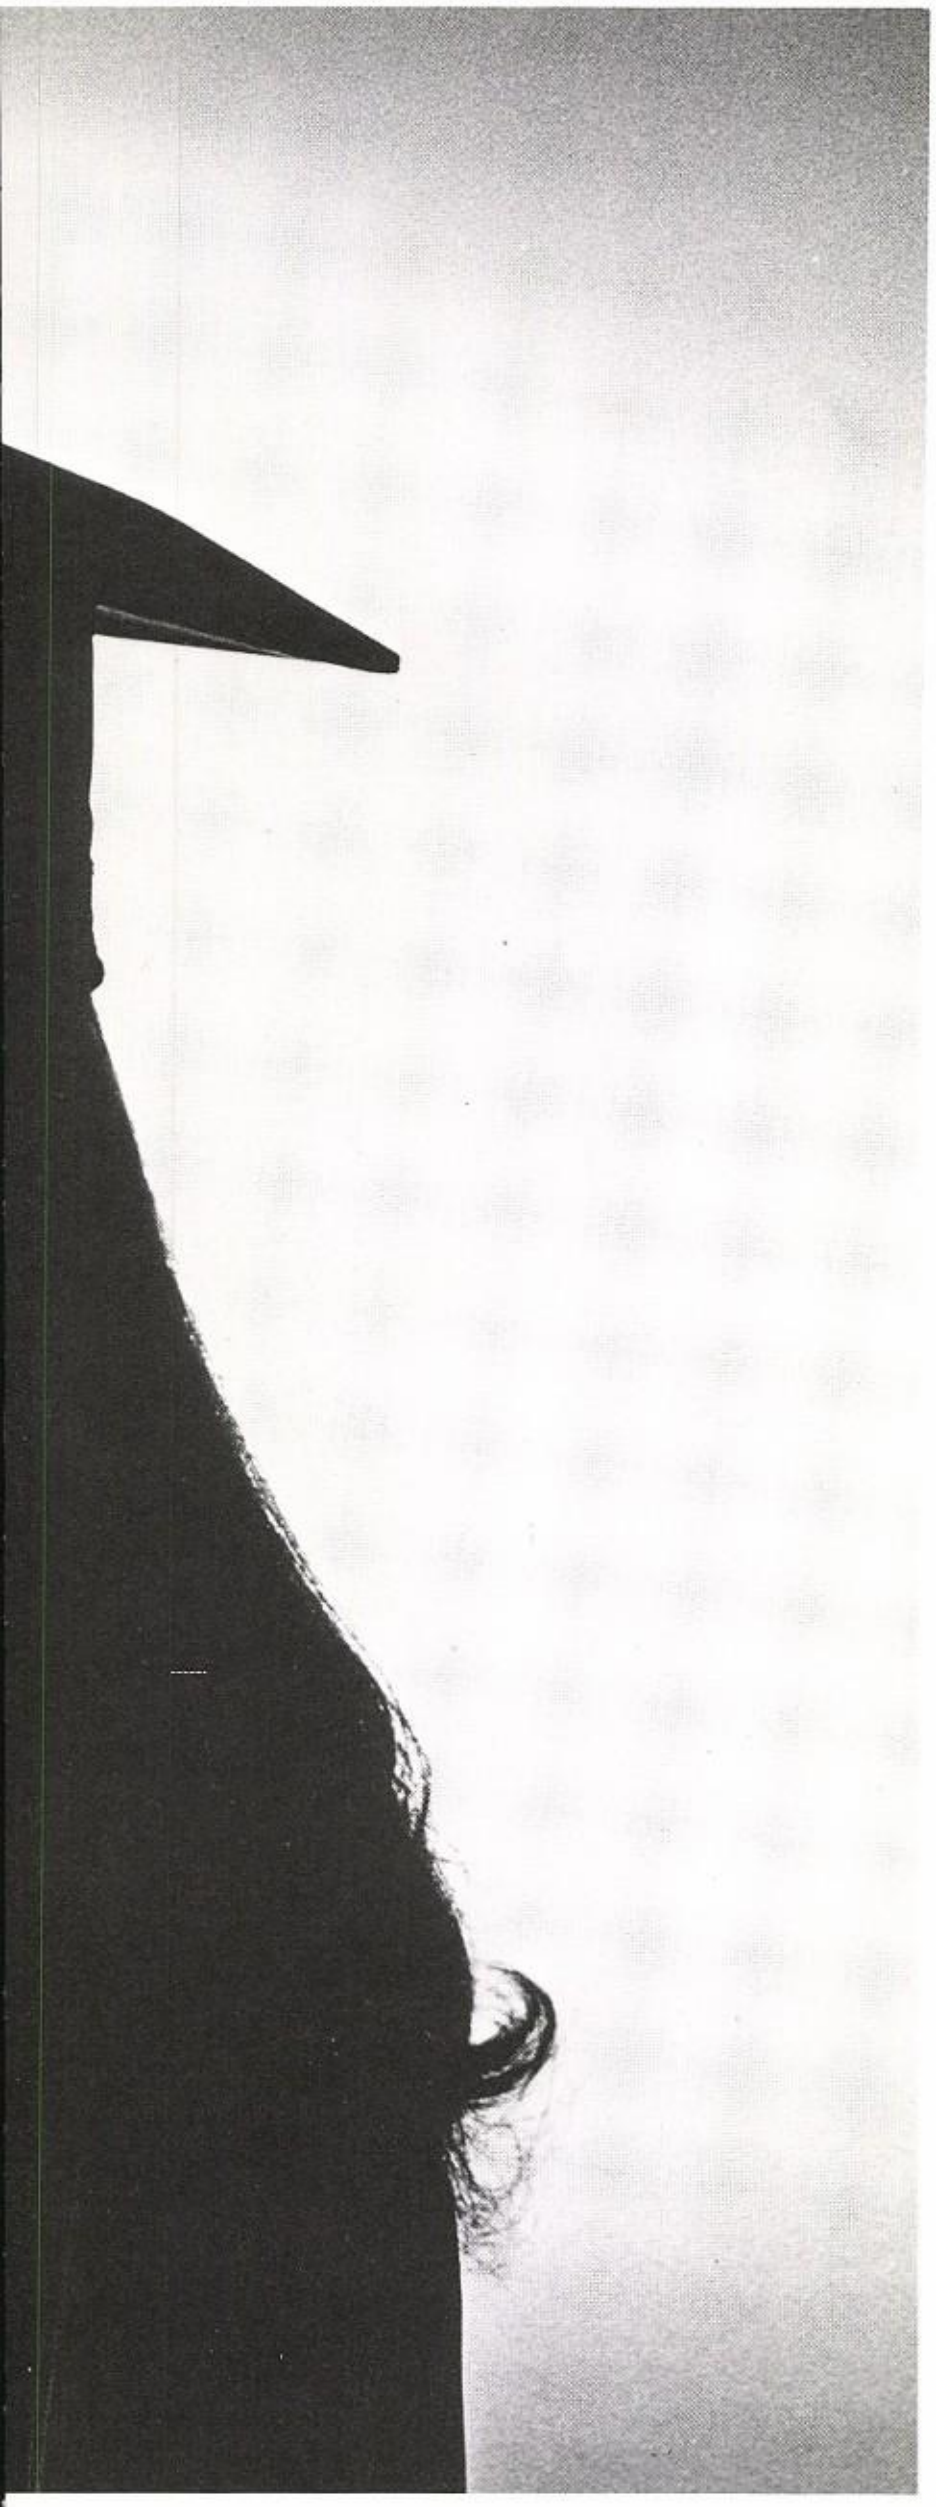
GUESTS

SENIOR
72





Remember yesterday
when you shyly took my hand
and we two faced a strange,
looming future?
Remember how we lurched
through our sophomore year,
in awe of the juniors,
in love with the seniors,
in fear of the teachers?
And what a carefree year
we had as juniors;
making jokes,
ordering rings,
forever writing more schedule cards.
But what could compare to this year?

Studying for finals amid college catalogs and booklets is Helen Holacka.

Greg Schraudenbaugh begins a list for graduation announcements.

Will we ever recapture the hopes,
the sentimental silliness,
the seriousness of being seniors?
Will we ever see each other
after years in the world
unprotected by our youth
and our dreams?
Remember yesterday
when you shyly took my hand
and we two faced a strange,
looming future?

There are always some who rise above the throng to shine in their special ways. Here we give recognition to these individuals: The Mardi Gras Queen, Miss Teenage Fort Worth, National Merit Finalists, "All Southwest," Mr. and Miss Southwest and finalists, and Belles and Beaux.

Demonstrating pride in themselves, their school, and their community, intermingled with solid accomplishments to create responsible students and leaders are "All Southwest," seniors chosen by the faculty.

Character entails a precious essence which, though hard to define, is readily detected. Positive traits which embody the "Southwest" ideal are personified in the outstanding representatives: Mr. and Miss Southwest . . . and finalists.

Popularity and personableness are the assets of our favorites, selected by the student body — Belles and Beaux.

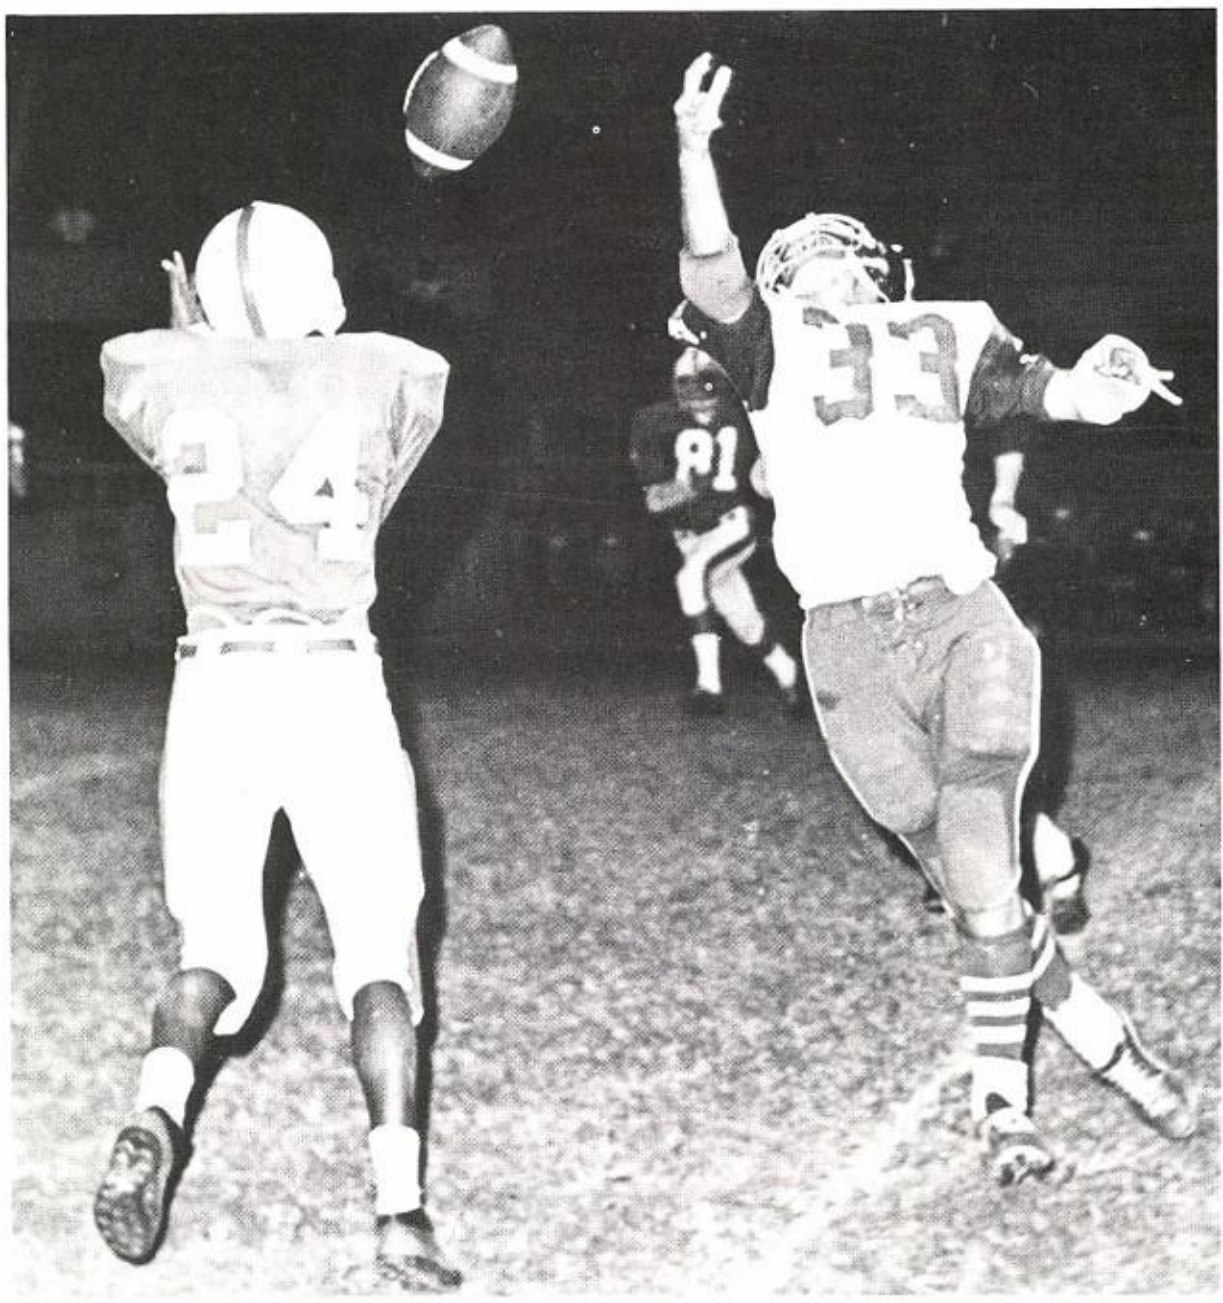
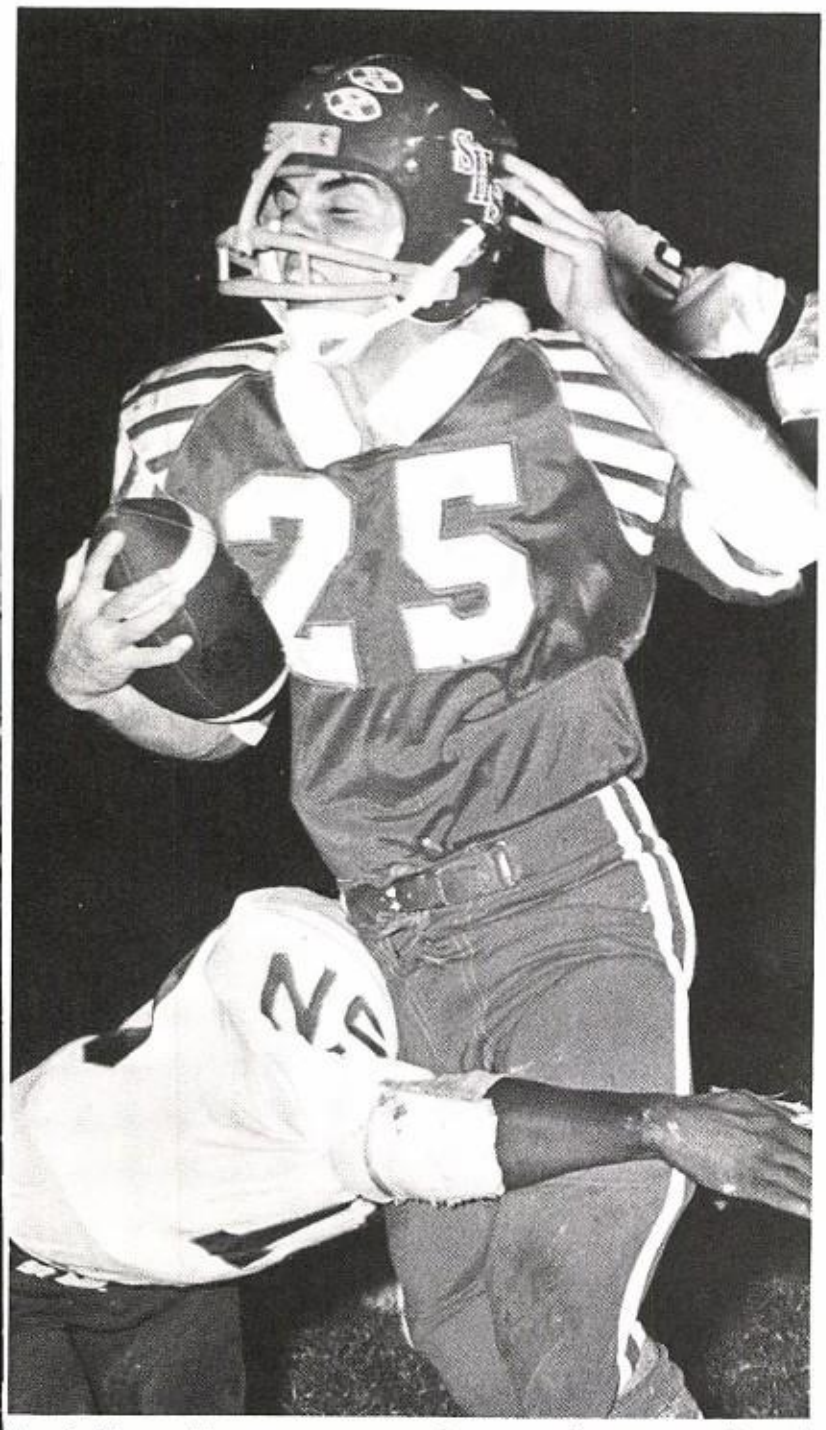
Jerry Bristow clears a path for running back David Gardner through a maze of Carter tacklers.

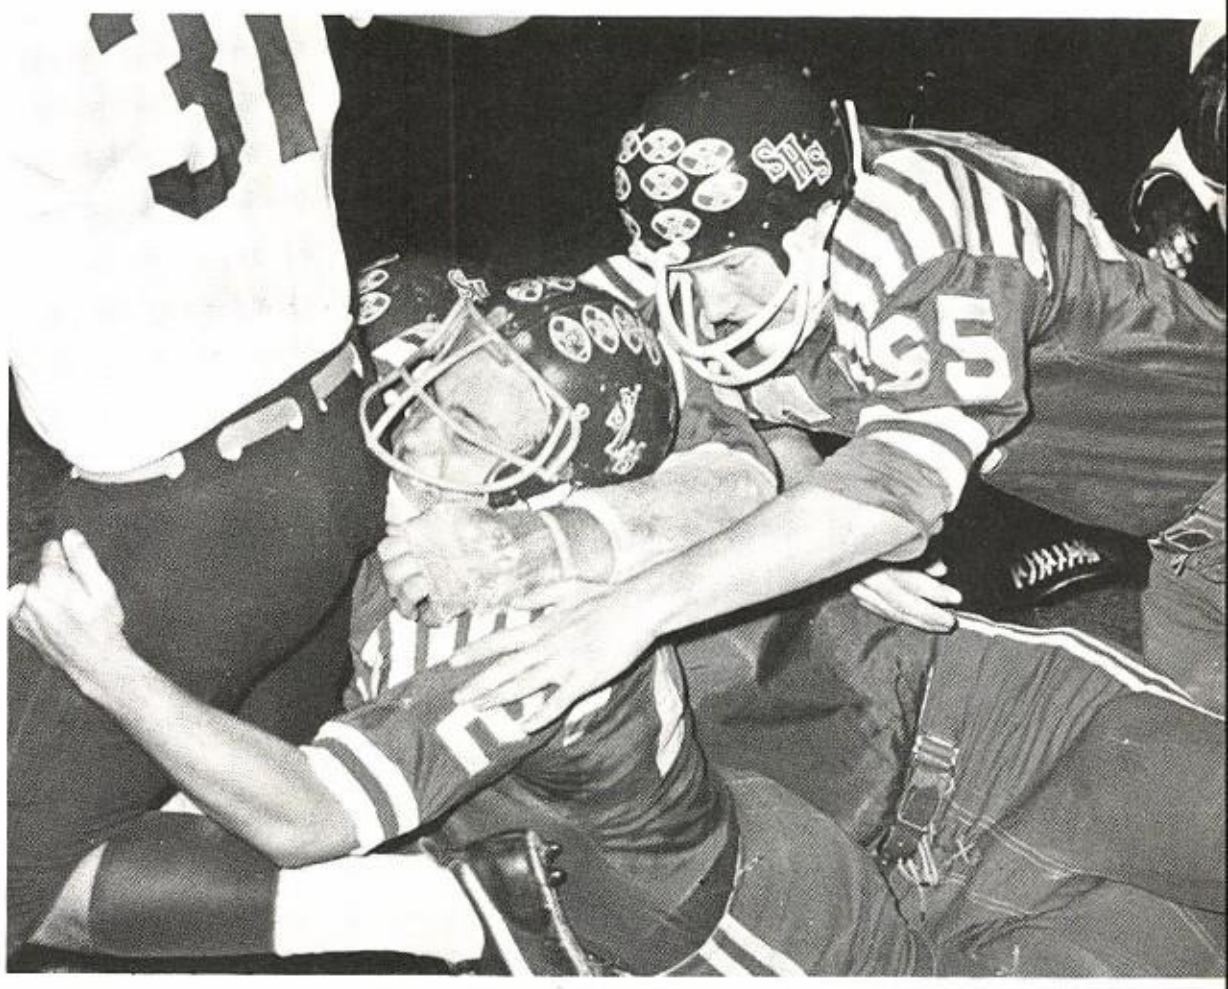
They get by even the best of us; at least that's Dan Zeller's feeling about this Carter runner.



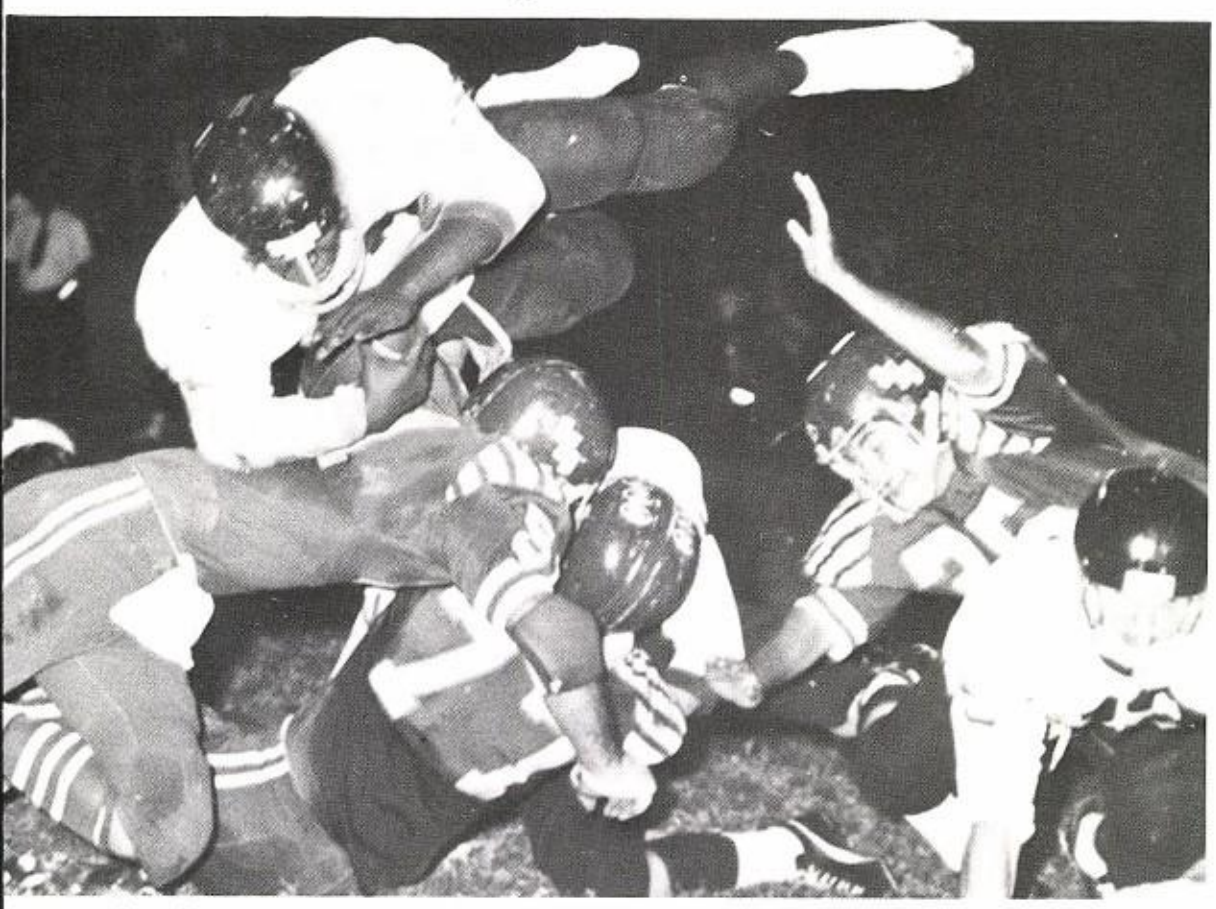
Reb defender Jerry Bristow keeps leaping for Carter passes, but once in a while one slips through.



Northside tacklers can appear from nowhere, as Jeff Reid learned on this play.



Bobby Lucas and Mike Francis team up to drag down a loose Steer.



Despite the efforts of Jim Suggs, Dana Isoline, and Karl Hilprecht, a Northside runner finds a way to gain yardage.

Wipeout.
The Steers trample over
Southwest in a night

BASKETBALL: C-TEAM

Supple muscles rip through the frothy lanes.
The only sound is the heaving, sucking waves slapping the sides of the pool as the Girls' Swim Team
goes through its paces.
Practices are excrutiating,
meets are frightening,
but the aquanauts face
their competition in true Rebel form.

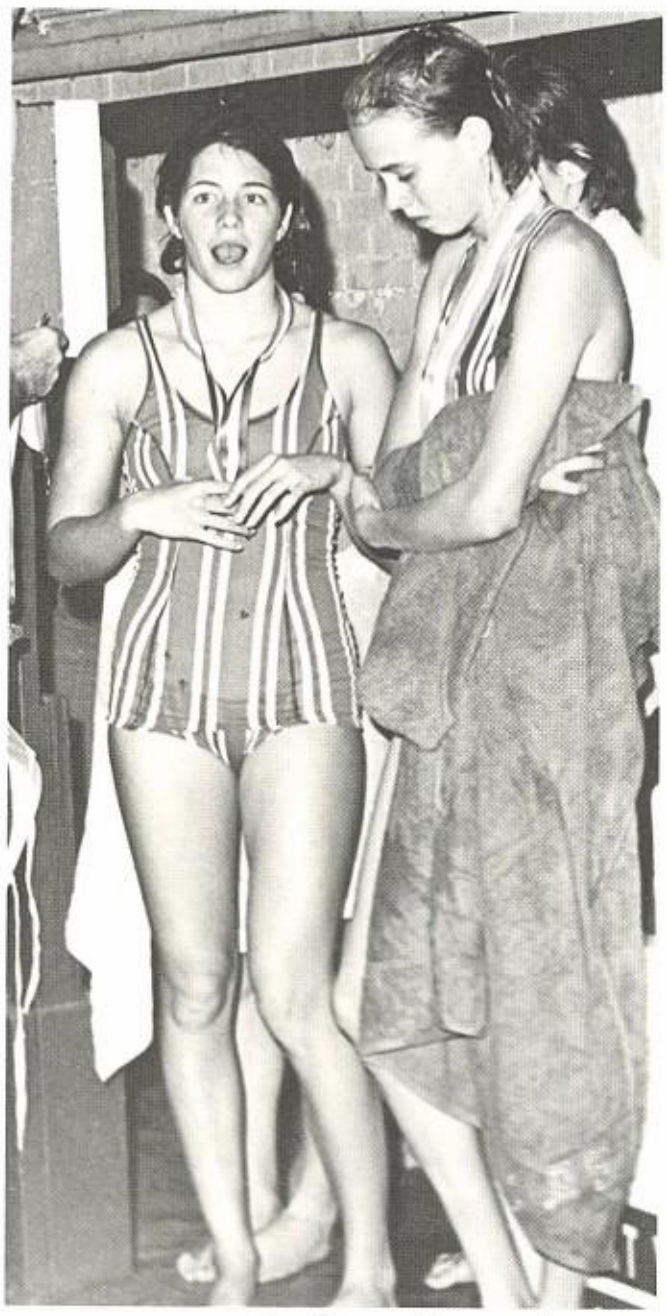
(L.-R.) Front Row — Debbie Reinbach, Pat Virgets, Sue Henry, Lori Harbort, Debbie McMahon. Back Row — Kim Klawiter, Liz Freese, Delane Davis, Pam Baughman, Lynda Climie, Pat O'Keefe.

Pam Baughman springs out to an early lead.

Supporters agonize the last lap.

Jayne Colburn takes the big plunge.



Sue Henry discusses her wins.

Twisting, splitting, contorting their bodies into unimaginable exercises on bar, beam, and floor,
the gymnastic team competes
at city meets and proves sports are a true art form.

Melinda Spurlock displays prize-winning form.

(L.-R.) Gratitude is not oft' expressed in our hurried times.
Now we pause to give
only token appreciation —
For how can we wrap
the emotions and memories that are inspired by a life-long career of giving
into a few lines?
The caring teacher
makes a profound impact on those whose brains —
    and hearts —
receive the gift of knowledge.
We who have known you can only say
    Thank-you.
We know that you,
    Mrs. Gibbins and Mrs. Lesser,
will understand.

JOE OKERSON
(1954-1971)

Out of the night that covers me,
Black as the pit from pole to pole;
I thank whatever gods may be
For my unconquerable soul.

In the fell clutch of circumstance,
I have not winced nor cried aloud;
Beneath the bludgeonings of chance
My head is bloody but unbowed.

Beyond this vale of wrath and tears,
Looms out the horror of the shade;
And yet the menace of the years
Finds, and shall find me, unafraid.

It matters not how strait the gate,
How charged with punishment the scroll;
I am the Master of my fate;
I am the Captain of my soul.

INVICTUS
William Ernest Henley

MORROCAN WALL HANGING
RUSSELL COLLECTION

Just as a tapestry is made of thousands of different threads, so a person is made of thousands of different experiences. Each new acquaintance adds another dimension of personality; each reaction, another of individuality.

This process of interweaving life's adventures is illustrated in Carole King's Tapestry. Through words and music, Miss King has woven her emotions into a popular art form which produces visual and aural images.

The Yee-Haw Staff of 1972 has chosen this same theme to present the school year as a portion of a growing life story a fragment yet to be completed. The artwork and photography in the yearbook symbolize different aspects of school life, the whole, we hope, recreating Southwest High School.
